Council refuses to light 'dump' area

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Although it is concerned, the Romulus City Council turned a cool ear toward Councilman Larry Coleman's suggestion that it immediately approve funds to light the area of the city being used as a "dumping ground" for bodies.

Coleman proposed at last week's council session to authorize funds for the lighting of the Beverly Road-Henry Ruff Road area of the city — the area where two young Detroit boys' bodies were found by police that morning.

Residents complain about city's reputation

"I had many neighbors on my porch when I came home from work that day asking me to do something about changing the area to insure that no more bodies are dumped in this city," he said.

"WHETHER WE like it or not, Romulus is getting a bad reputation because of these things, and I think it's incumbent upon the council to take some action to change this course of events," he added.

Coleman, recently elected to the council, suggested the council appropriate funds to light Henry Ruff Road from Van Born to Beverly Road and Beverly Road from Henry Ruff westward. In addition, he suggested that the council look into paving the two roads in an effort "to allow more traffic to travel them to discourage people from using Romulus as the drop-off point for bodies."

The council took no action, however, because of the present any action may set for other residents to use against the city.

"We've been charging special assessments for lighting the city," said Councilman James Stewart. "And I can just see when the council appropriates funds for lighting one area of the city all those who had to pay for their lights coming before the council to ask for similar treatment.

"THE CITY can't afford to light everyone's street, that's why we're charging special assessments."

Coleman suggested that the city look into the possibility of Wayne County sharing in the cost of the lighting.

"The two roads border county land," Coleman said. "Therefore, the county should share in the cost."

"Furthermore, the county also ought to be forced to look into stopping the use of Metropolitan Airport as a dumping ground for

SANTA ARRIVES—Santa Claus arrived in Romulus Friday evening, and met children from the community for the first time this year. He participated in ceremonies at Romulus City Hall which included the singing of Christmas carols, the lighting of the city's official Christmas tree and a small pre-Christmas party at the city hall. Hundreds of residents turned out to welcome Santa to the city. He'll be available later this month in the Romulus City Hall to talk to area children. He also can be reached by writing to "Santa's Mailbox. It is located in front of the Romulus Library.—Romulus Roman photo.

Troutt seeks revamping of land use in Romulus

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

A total revamping of the city's land use philosophy is the aim of Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt.

"The city is operating with a map drawn up by a committee of citizens who worked without expert help for planning the community," Troutt said. "Not only that, but the map which the citizens committee drew up was changed drastically by the former city council. It no longer represents the proposal presented to the council by the committee it selected to do the job."

Troutt served on the citizens advisory committee and helped design what he now terms "the yellowed piece of paper that isn't worth much anymore."

TROUTT SAID the committee's goal was to make a planning map, and a planning procedure, which was more suited to the needs of the community and more suited to the wants and desires of the people.

"I wanted a plan which would be followed strictly, to insure orderly growth in Romulus, in all phases," Troutt said. "My concept of the master plan wasn't to use it as a loose guide, which was changed when every 'Tom, Dick and Harry' came in to ask for a change."

Troutt said the original intent of the advisory committee was to adopt a new master plan and a provision called for a referendum right by the people on all planning changes approved by the council.

"That way, if the people didn't like the changes the council made in the master plan by zoning amendments, the people could overturn them in a referendum," he added. "I think in the long run, we'd have a more orderly developed city, instead of the piecemeal stuff we're getting now."

"BUT, WHEN that was proposed to the council, it made changes without a public hearing, and we're stuck with this worthless piece of paper and no referendum provision."

Troutt said the first task he will assign to the city's new planning firm — Community Planning and Management — is the revamping of the entire master plan structure and of the planning procedure.

"We'll contract with them separately for a redrawing of the master plan, in an effort to bring Romulus back to the people," the mayor said.

He added that he was confident the Romulus City Council would go along with his proposal "since every candidate elected to office

'The people would have the final say.'

campaigned for a redrawing of the master plan, regardless of the team they ran with."

HE SAID he hopes to propose the studying by the Dec. 26 council meeting.

If it is approved at that time, the study would take more than 18 months, and cost between $45,000 and $65,000.

"With a cost like that, I'd like to see the referendum right included," Troutt said.

"That way, once the plan's adopted, the money and the time put into it won't go down the drain, regardless of the mayor or council that is in office at the time. "It would be the people who had the final right to decide planning issues."

TROUTT SAID he would recommend that some restrictions be placed on the referendum proposal before it is implemented, however.

"Maybe we'll require a representative percentage of signatures to be included with any petition for a referendum, or ask the parties who want the referendum to share in the city's costs," Troutt said.

Citizens and officials meet at open forum

The citizens of Romulus are invited to talk with city officials from 8 to 11 o'clock tonight in the city's first "open forum".

All elected and appointed officials in Romulus will be available to answer questions, or take complaints from the citizens in the city council chambers of the Romulus City Hall.

"It will be a kind of 'no holds barred' meeting," said Mayor Terry L. Troutt. "I'll have all my appointees there to answer the citizens, but the citizens must remember, my employees also may have something to say."

"It ought to be a good discussion," City Council President Mrs. Beverly McAnally said the meeting "should give every citizen in the city the opportunity to discuss those things of concern to them in the government."

Mrs. McAnally added that the meeting fulfills the charter requirement to give the citizens their "reasonable opportunity to be heard" by the council.

"We hope to have a good healthy discussion, and to learn more about our citizens, and their desires," Mrs. McAnally said. "After all, the council was elected to serve, and it can serve best if there is a meaningful communication between the citizens and elected officials."

Romulus clears rolls of non-resident voters

Romulus may have a lot of non-residents on its voter registration rolls. And, Romulus City Clerk Leonard Folmar is determined to do something about it.

"We're about to start processing registrations of those voters who we believe have moved out of the community, to determine if they vote anymore in Romulus elections," Folmar said.

"We'll be sending letters and if the letters are returned without a reply, we'll consider the voter no longer living in the community," he added. "That's about the only way we can determine whether the number of registered voters we show is correct."

FOLMAR SUSPECTS that there are more than 1,500 non-resident registration cards on his files—cards that no one uses, but that no one has bothered to cancel.

"By all appearances, we should have less than the 12,000 registered voters we claimed in the last election," he said.

Folmar's problem with registration isn't unique, however. Clerks across the state are carrying far more people on election rolls than they believe live in their community because of a 1972 Michigan Supreme Court ruling.

At that time, the court ruled that voters could not be canceled from the rolls simply for not voting once every two years.

NOW, A VOTER need not vote for four years, and still may be on the roll.

In the past, if no vote was cast in two years, the voter automatically was cancelled, and had to re-register before casting another vote in an election.

The clerks throughout the area agree that the new procedure is a bit more democratic, since virtually no one is denied the ruling could create abuses.

"It's conceivable that a person could remain registered in two communities, because no one

Commissioner for 26th District Harris fills county board post

Romulus residents have a new Wayne County commissioner to represent them in the 26th District.

He is Edgar Harris, a man long active in Taylor civic and political affairs.

The 26-member Wayne County Board of Commissioners unanimously appointed Harris, 49, to the position at its Saturday board meeting to fill the term vacated by John N. Sabo, who was elected the clerk of Taylor.

A MACHINIST at the Cadillac Motor Company for the past 25 years, Harris has been a resident of Taylor for the past 16 years. He is married and the father of two children.

Although he is not a Romulus resident, Harris meets the criterion set down by Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt when he first learned the office was vacated by Sabo.

Harris will be sympathetic with Romulus, and will work for us," Troutt said. "I met with Taylor Mayor S. Richard Marshall, and he assured me that Harris will have the best interest of Romulus at heart at the commission meetings."

Troutt said he understood the appointment of a Taylor man to the position, "because Taylor has 75 per cent of the voters in this district.

BUT HE ADDED that a man sympathetic to Romulus was needed to insure that the city get its fair share from Wayne County—particularly in the question of compensation for the expansion of the Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

"We're going to start meetings with the county," Troutt said. "Having a man on our side at the commission will help us."

Harris is a Democrat, and a member of the 15th District Democratic Club.

Newspaper shortage hurts Romulus Goodfellows' sale

The Romulus Goodfellows have hit on hard times. This year's newspaper sale, thought successful for the two hours it lasted, hit upon a shortage and had to stop early Saturday morning.

Due to the newspaper shortage, the goodfellows received 1,800 newspapers for its sale instead of the 4,200 ordered.

Despite the shortage, the Goodfellows were able to reach 66 per cent of last year's total collection—$800.

However, families in need from throughout the community may feel the pinch of the newspaper shortage, unless the people of Romulus pitch in to help a Goodfellow spokesman said.

The Goodfellows are hoping for donations by mail.

Any resident interested in contributing can mail in his donation to the Romulus Goodfellows, P.O. Box, 35, Romulus between now and Christmas.

Funds are needed soon to purchase toys for children and prepare food packages for those families who may not be able to enjoy a merry Christmas without outside help.

The Goodfellows are thankful for the people who purchased newspapers during their two-hour sale, but hope those who they missed pitch in to insure that "no kiddie is without a Christmas" in Romulus this year.

Nation needs profound change in time of crisis

By BOB BERG
Lansing Bureau Chief

A Michigan State University engineer who has been studying the energy crisis for more than three years sees some profound changes needed if the United States is to successfully cope with the shortage of energy.

Dr. Herman Koenig has been working on the energy situation under a grant from the National Science Foundation for longer than most people have even heard about the crisis. He doesn't like what he has found.

The basic problem as he sees it is that energy has been so cheap that we have been quick to use higher amounts of it in exchange for less labor and less time consumption. This cheap energy has made possible a highly centralized society in which small towns and

'We ignored the fact that these sources of energy such as coal and oil are on the earth in finite quantities and will run out.'

neighborhoods have disintegrated.

"THE CHEAP ENERGY allowed the buildup of the suburbs and the erection of huge shopping malls to replace neighborhood stores," Koenig said.

"Yet both suburbs and malls are extremely wasteful of energy in comparison to a less highly centralized set up," he added.

The cheap energy also has made possible an economy based on the flow of money, with planned obsolescence, another energy wasteful factor, helping contribute to the economic well being.

"We ignored the fact that we live in a finite world," Koenig said. "We ignored the fact that these sources of energy such as coal and oil are on the earth in finite quantities and will run out."

THE RESULT is an economy based on a continued supply of physical resources which are going to run out. And if changes aren't made, the result could be disastrous.

"The depression of the 1930's was caused by a failure of the money market," Koenig added. "That, combined with the fact we were a less urbanized society allowed us to make it through."

"But if the energy crisis produces a depression, it will be one caused by a failure of physical resources. The people living in the suburbs whose way of life and employment are based on a ready supply of energy will be cut off."

The engineer thinks the Arabs did this country a big favor when they shut off our oil during the recent Mideast crisis.

"I DON'T SEE the current situation as a crisis, but as a blessing," he said. "The energy crisis is the only force in society strong enough to make us change and put ourselves in long term equilibrium with our environment."

"It was only a matter of time until we ran out and it's better to have the warning now than wait three or four years and get hit by a much more serious situation."

Koenig sees a long term solution including the decentralization of society and turning away from the bigness which has come to dominate the country.

"The bigger the city, the more energy it takes per person to keep it running," he said. "Just the problems of supplying food and removing wastes become much more

Two Belleville students map chamber of commerce history

Two students, attending a journalism class at Belleville High School, have undertaken the task of writing a history of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

The two girl students are Gwen Capes, 16, and Judy

Hudge, 15. They began their study of the 150-member chamber of commerce this fall when the chamber's executive director Theodore F. Kuckelman requested school officials find two students for the task.

Mrs. Rose Dazy, journalism instructor, picked Gwen and Judy, who are students in the introductory journalism class, to write the history.

The two students also are preparing a year-by-year record of the activities of the chamber and intend to get the opinions and thoughts about the organization from area residents.

Although the project was started through the school district, neither girl will receive a grade or credit for their work.

Township taxes are payable without penalty to Feb. 28

Van Buren Township property taxes due Dec. 1, are payable without penalty through Feb. 28.

The Feb. 28 date is a two-week extension on penalty assessment approved by the township trustees.

Beginning March 1, a four per cent fee will be added plus one-half of one per cent per month interest, computed from that date said Van Buren Township Treasurer Ralph Hedman.

After the Feb. 28 deadline, real estate taxes must be paid to Louis H. Funk, Wayne County treasurer, with the four per cent collection fee and interest added.

For the convenience of township taxpayers, the following bank branches have been authorized to receive property tax payments:

Bank of the Commonwealth, Belleville Road and the I-94 Expressway; National Bank of Belleville, 397 Main St., Belleville; National Bank of Detroit, 7585 Belleville Rd., Belleville; National Bank of Detroit, Rawsonville Road and the I-94 Expressway, and the Wyandotte Savings Bank, 10680 Haggerty Rd., Belleville.

Tax payments also can be paid at the township hall, 46425 Tyler Rd.

After March 1, all personal property taxes must be paid at the Township office

Extended vacation is eyed

Energy crisis may bring longer Christmas vacation to school children, said State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus).

"The state board of education will consider recommending a one month Christmas vacation for all public schools in Michigan that returned to the classroom for the normal school year in September," Mahalak added.

"In other words, non-striking districts will be asked to consider closing down schools for an extended period of time in order to reduce building temperatures to 40 degrees during the vacation period, while at the same time agreeing to extend their school year into the last few days of June when warm weather is generally present," he said.

The recommendation of the state board of education has come about, because of the energy crisis. Another alternative the board will have before it is to recommend a four-day week for all local schools, is an agreement that the local board of education will extend their school year until the end of June, Mahalak said.

Belleville police investigating urban renewal fire, break-in

A break-in and fire at a three-unit apartment building located in Belleville's urban renewal area is under investigation by Belleville police.

The fire, which followed the reported break-in Nov. 28 was extinguished by the city fire department. The interior blaze caused extensive damage to the city-owned vacant structure, officials said.

Henry G. Graper, city's urban renewal director, with the consent of city administration, ordered the "hazardous" dwelling demolished. Wreckers were scheduled to demolish the building this week.

The city's urban renewal site is located in the community's central business district. The site is little over an acre in size and basically bounded by Main Street, Roys and High streets.

Graper said that the city has acquired ownership of all but one parcel of property which now is in condemnation proceedings in Wayne County Circuit Court.

The building damaged by the fire was slated for the wrecker's hammer anyway, Graper added.

The owners of property already acquired by the city have been relocated, Graper said. A U.S. grant in the amount of $350,000 has been approved for the city's urban renewal program.

The urban renewal site will be clear of its existing structures (five parcels of property) and the land sold to the highest bidder for commercial development, Graper said.

Driver education teachers want VBEA representation

The Van Buren Education Association (VBEA) has filed an election petition with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) for the right to represent driver education teachers of the Van Buren Public Schools.

According to William Houston, president of the association, the driver education teachers have not received wage increases since 1968.

In April, the VBEA's negotiating team proposed wage adjustments for the driver education teachers. The board of education would not recognize the right of the VBEA to negotiate for these teachers, Houston said and consequently the election petition was filed.

The case was heard on Aug. 3 before an administrative law judge, Bert Wicking. The judge's decision will allow the holding of an election to determine the bargaining representative for the driver education teachers.

The procedures for the election should be completed this month and the election will be held in January, Houston said.

Students sip soup for prize

Students at the Van Buren District's West Willow Elementary School are up to their spoons in soup these days in an all out effort to collect 4,500 Campbell soup labels before Dec. 14.

The school-wide effort is aimed at a listening post device being offered by the Campbell Soup Company and despite a late start, the students are hopeful they'll reach their label goal well ahead of the deadline.

New firms offer advice to officials in Romulus

Technical advice for Romulus' public officials will come from different firms. The Romulus City Council has approved the hiring of a new engineering and planning consultant and a new auditing firm.

The council approved the hiring of Community Planning and Management to handle the city's planning advice. It also approved the hiring of Morris Levine and Associates as the consulting engineers and of Adelson, Wietz, Witus and Company to handle the city's auditing.

The firms join with the city's new law firm — Munger and Crum.

"ALL THE FIRMS have been hired on a standard contract, which includes a per-hour rate comparable to rates across the county for work in the city and a fee per meeting for any meetings which they may attend," said Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt. "They've all met with the council, and seem to have impressed them, and I'm happy to have these firms along to help us."

However, the appointments, didn't go as smoothly as anticipated, with Councilman James C. Stewart abstaining on the votes for two of the firms because he didn't have sufficient time to study their qualifications.

In the case of hiring the planning consultants and the auditing firm, Stewart abstained, stating: "I haven't had time to study these firms, because I did not receive the information until just before the council meeting."

And, for the hiring of the new engineering firms, Stewart joined with Councilmen Fred Junior Block and William M. Oakley to vote against the recommendation.

NONE OF THE councilmen explained their dissenting votes at the council meeting.

Troutt did not elaborate on the need for the new consulting firms. He did say he favored their approval over retaining the old firms to handle the city's business.

from which future clerk and carrier vacancies at this post office can be filled," England said.

The applications, available at the post office, are for the clerk-carrier examination to be conducted at a later date, according to Postmaster Donald England.

No postal experience is required, England said, but all applicants will be required to take the written exam, a four-part test, dealing with address checking, memory for address, general abilities and number series.

"The examination is to establish a register of eligibles

Completion of the test and form will take three hours, England said.

Field cut to four

Troutt narrows selection for coordinator

Romulus' search for an industrial coordinator — an administrative position left vacant for more than 18 months — may be completed soon.

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt said he has narrowed down the field of those who are applying for the industrial coordinator's job — a post left vacant when the council fired the former coordinator — to four people.

"I'm pretty sure we'll be recommending a man to the council by the Dec. 26 meeting," Troutt said.

"RIGHT NOW, the man I have in mind is well-qualified, for the post, and has some background in it," he added. "I can assure you, the industrial coordinator will be a top in the field. We want nothing less than the best for this city."

Troutt had given his search for an industrial coordinator a top priority when he took office in November.

"The man will be the key to promoting Romulus to outside interests, particularly in industry and commerce," he said. "I promised to get a shopping center for Romulus when I ran for election, and the hiring of this man will be a key move in gaining that important thing for Romulus citizens."

While the search for the coordinator — who will be known as the Romulus Industrial-Commercial Coordinator-Planner — has been going well, Troutt still has not decided on who he will hire to fill two other vacant positions.

BOTH THE CITY'S building department and Romulus Department of Public Works (DPW) have no appointed director, although David Pauls of the DPW is acting department head.

"I really haven't decided on what to do in either of those departments," Troutt said. "But once this (coordinator hiring) is out of the way, I'll be able to proceed with them."

Nation now needs profound change

KOENIG ADDED THAT the problems of waste disposal alone "suggest that in retrospect we made a tragic mistake when we let cities like Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles become as large and concentrated as they are."

The increasing cost of energy will automatically provide a force for decentralization, he said. If gasoline is $1 a gallon, then it won't make sense to drive five miles to a shopping mall for a small purchase when there is a small neighborhood store which sells the same thing.

Koenig also sees the possibility of graduated taxes penalizing bigness. A 3,000 acre farm, for example, would have a higher property tax per acre than a 300 acre farm. A Cadillac owner would pay much higher taxes for his car which gets eight miles per gallon than would a Volkswagen owner who gets 23 miles per gallon.

He said some environmental laws may have to be relaxed to help the small businessman as well.

FOR EXAMPLE, he points to Environmental Protection Agency rules prohibiting any discharge of sulphur dioxide, no matter where a business is located. Such a policy will help the short term problem of cleaning up the air, but can have harmful long term effects.

"The big operator can take advantage of economies of scale in back filtering the process to take the sulphur dioxide out," he said. "The isolated small plant out in the boondocks where the sulphur dioxide is not even causing detectable trouble also has to take it out."

"The technological economies of scale associated with his back fitting operation puts him at an even greater economic disadvantage, so you wipe him out. The long term result is to further concentrate these production facilities."

Whatever happens, he said we have recognized the problem in time to make the necessary changes without an economic catastrophe. And he thanks the Arabs for that.

Romulus clears rolls of voters

bothered to cancel his old registration when he moved," Folmar said. "It could mean two votes for one individual—and there isn't anything democratic about that."

UNDER PRESENT guidelines, clerks from one city are required to send a cancellation notice to another city, if a voter registers in another city.

"But, some clerks aren't conscientious," Folmar said. "And some simply don't know where the voter used to be registered, so there are no cancellation notices sent out. I try to watch it. But, if a voter doesn't have his old card, and doesn't tell me where he was registered, there's nothing I can do about canceling his old registration."

So, clerks resort to the mailing technique Folmar intends to try.

"IT'LL TAKE about six weeks, at the least, to get some results," he said. "And even then, I don't know if our rolls will be accurate."

"At least they'll be closer to accurate, so I can begin registered voters. So, Folmar intends to try to save a bit of money by his type of voter census.

"If we can cancel 1,500 registration cards in this program, it's conceivable we wouldn't need another precinct," he said. "That saves the city the cost of voting machines, poll workers and building rental on the next election day."

the murders — possibly by forcing the inspection of every car trunk allowed in the parking lots."

COLEMAN SUGGESTED the council consider an ordinance requiring the county to check trunks.

However, the council only took limited action to "study" Coleman's suggestions.

"If you're talking about including the paving in next year's program, that surely should be considered," said Councilman William Parkley.

"But, before the city acts on lighting the area, it ought to send the attorney to negotiate with the county for some funds for lighting, since it's county land which abuts the area," he added.

However, Coleman voted against the motion, claiming he sought quicker action than an investigation.

The motion passed 6-1 with Coleman casting the only "no" vote.

Romulus-area chess buffs have the opportunity to brush up on their skills starting at 7 p.m. Thursdays in the Romulus City Hall Community Room.

The Romulus Chess Club meets every Thursday for four hours, according to its chairman, Bob Weiss.

Chess-masters soon may have the opportunity to further their skills, Weiss said, since the club will begin tournament play with other clubs in the area.

Information on the club can be obtained by stopping by one of the weekly meetings.

Jaycees conduct tree sale

Romulus residents have an opportunity to purchase Christmas trees this year and benefit the community at the same time. The Romulus Jaycees are holding a Christmas tree sale in Kennedy Park until Christmas Eve with all proceeds from the sale going to community improvement projects sponsored by the service club.

The sale will be open from noon to 9 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekends.

Trees will sell for $4 or more.

Will help party's cause

State GOP will welcome Ford's assistance

By BOB BERG
Lansing Bureau Chief

LANSING — Michigan Republicans say Gerald Ford's elevation to the vice presidency can only help the party's cause in the state.

Ford has never been interested in wielding much power within the Michigan party and that is not expected to change. But the fact that he is vice president and comes from Michigan is seen as a plus.

If nothing else, he should be a bigger drawing card than ever for fund raising dinners.

HE HAS ALWAYS been popular within the party in this state. A party thrown in Washington after he took the oath of office pulled more than 400 persons from Michigan and another 800 or so Michiganders who work in Washington.

The Michigan party people feel they should have a little more clout in Washington as well, with a conduit for their feelings sitting next to the president.

'He's got to be a plus for the party, both in Michigan and nationally.'

Ford's elevation would be a plus for Gov. William G. Milliken if he decides to run for another term next year. The two men are not considered on the same philosophical plane, with Ford a more conservative person than Milliken. But they have a great deal of respect for each other as persons.

A COUPLE OF APPEARANCES on Milliken's behalf by Ford in western Michigan next year would probably help shore up the conservative section of the party, a group which views Milliken suspiciously. As vice president, Ford would get much more attention, and thus have more effect.

Should Ford decide to run for the presidency in 1976, it would make things a lot simpler for the party as well.

Without Ford, it was starting to look like the GOP might have a shootout between its conservative and liberal wings in 1976. Ford has continually said he has no plans to run in 1976, but that is three years away and a lot of pressure could be generated between now and then to convince him to run, even if he does not assume the presidency sometime before then.

FORD IS WELL respected in the Michigan GOP and even if primary challenges should develop, it is doubted they would be carried here. The same would not have been true had Spiro Agnew been running.

Whatever happens with Ford, it's a sure thing he'll have a better relationship with the Michigan GOP than Agnew did.

Milliken was openly and repeatedly critical of Agnew in earlier years, though their relationship had warmed before Agnew resigned. In 1970, Milliken worked to keep Agnew out of the state for fear it would hurt Milliken's gubernatorial campaign.

EVEN WHEN MILLIKEN became more friendly with Agnew, a lot of GOP's were left grumbling last June when the vice president made a Lansing appearance and made no attempt to contact party people. Some hurried conferences were arranged, but a lot of noses were left out of joint.

That won't happen with Ford. 'He's got to be a plus for the party, both in Michigan and nationally,' said state Chairman William McLaughlin the day after Ford took his oath of office. 'There's no way his becoming vice president is going to hurt us.'

In our opinion

Vice President Ford offers new trust

When Michigan's Gerald Ford took the oath of office as this nation's 40th Vice President, he concluded with a brief statement on how he viewed the nation's future.

Under the glaring lights of news cameramen and television crews, Vice President Ford promised to serve the nation and to defend, without reservation, its laws and constitution.

We'd like to share some of Ford's observations with you, for they reflect the thinking of all concerned Americans.

'I am deeply grateful to you, Mr. President, for the trust and confidence your nomination implied. As I have throughout my public service under six administrations, I will try to set a high example of respect for the crushing and lonely burdens which the nation lays upon the President of the United States. You have my support and loyalty.'

Ford described the ceremony as a 'moment of visible and living unity.' Then looking around the chamber, at the people on the crowded floor and in the galleries as well, he said:

'I see Americans who love their country, Americans who work and sacrifice for their country and their children. I see Americans who pray without ceasing for peace among all nations and for harmony at home.'

'I see new generations of concerned and courageous Americans—but the same kind of Americans—the children and grandchildren of those Americans who met the challenge of Dec. 7 just 32 years ago.'

The reference was to the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor which plunged the United States into World War II.

Through the years Ford has always been regarded as a true man of Congress. He proved this assessment was correct when he said goodbye to his colleagues and added: 'May God bless the House of Representatives and guide you in all the days ahead.'

We wish God's blessings for the new vice president.

'It sure is a most awkward position!'

Ford sees three more Nixon years

Likens his VP role to being reliable 'family doctor'

By TOM OCHILTREE
Washington Bureau Chief

WASHINGTON — Newly-installed Vice President Gerald R. Ford has begun a highly visible effort to help keep President Nixon in the White House for the full three years remaining in his term.

Without any trace of guile, Ford told a packed news conference that he was convinced Nixon would not and should not resign. Further, he believed that any move to impeach the President would come to nothing.

He even disputed the claim voiced by some members of the GOP that Watergate and related scandals had made President Nixon a liability for the Republican Party. If the President can find a solution to the difficult Middle East problem, Ford said, he will be back in the good graces of the American people 'who are more interested in peace' than in chewing over Watergate.

FORD GAVE THE impression Friday that his own role would be something like that of a reliable family doctor seeking to remove the fever from the body politic.

Less than 24 hours after being sworn in as Vice President, Ford stressed that he already was working to repair the tattered relationship existing between Congress and the White House.

This effort was not only going on with senators but also would be carried out among his former colleagues in the House, Ford explained. In addition to office facilities on the Senate side of the Capitol, Ford also will have an office on the House side, an unprecedented arrangement.

'I can assure you the President has no intention whatsoever of resigning. I personally don't think he should resign...'

Political observers agreed Nixon could hardly have a better advocate with Congress. Ford served for 25 years as the congressman from Grand Rapids. The last nine years he was House Minority leader.

ALTHOUGH A STRONG advocate of orthodox Republican beliefs, Ford never let partisanship sour friendship. Many Democrats as well as Republicans rejoiced in his elevation to the vice presidency.

With Ford next in line of succession to the Presidency, reports swirled through Washington that Nixon now would be forced to resign or be removed by the impeachment process. That, it was said, would enable the Republican Party to fashion a new image in advance of the 1976 election with Ford as President.

'All this speculation about me is just speculation,' Ford said.

A short time before the news conference Ford conferred at the White House with Nixon. Pointing this out, the new vice president said:

'I CAN ASSURE YOU the President has no intention whatsoever of resigning. He restated that to me this morning. I personally don't think he should resign.'

'I have seen no evidence whatsoever of any kind that would justify a favorable vote in the House of Representatives on impeachment.'

The House Judiciary Committee now is attempting to determine if grounds for impeachment exist. Ford made no effort to predict the decision that committee, ultimately would take but said it was perfectly proper for the panel to go ahead with its investigation.

He also explained that he is one of those giving the President advice on 'operation candor,' the effort to answer the various charges leveled against the White House by placing the relevant records on the table.

Ford said the President intended to clear up all the issues now clouding the White House by the first of the year 'and has assured me when all the facts are out ... that he will be completely exonerated.'

FORD STRONGLY KNOCKED down a suggestion that Nixon was killing future Republican election hopes. He said a visit by Nixon to a congressional district would help the party 'because of the outstanding record the President has made in foreign policy and the fact that there are more pluses than minuses in the Administration's domestic record.'

Asked to enumerate the latter, Ford claimed the President had shifted the country from a wartime to a peacetime economy and at the same time increased the number of jobs available to Americans by almost 3 million. He also insisted that the President was coming to grips with the nagging food price and energy shortage problems.

Forgotten teachers

To the Editor: I am frustrated over the situation that teachers find ourselves. We seem to be the only group that cannot get a fair settlement. Since our strike - which accomplished nothing except lower our 1973 income - we have watched three automobile strikes and settlements and a Wards strike and settlement.

No one objects to those employees striking. No one objects to them getting a cost of living plus a raise, even though everyone knows that prices are raised to cover the added expense. What is the difference between raising prices and raising taxes?

Why are public employees discriminated against? Now that the children are back in school, no one cares that teachers are working on last year's salary (if they ever did).

We, too, have to pay higher prices for goods. We, too, have families to raise and feed and send to school.

Many of us have as much education as our principals and superintendents. Most of us have as much and more education than the members of the Board of Education, even as much as the Board's lawyer, yet, we earn much less.

We are in the situation of being 'damned' if we strike and forgotten if we don't. We still need a fair contract and with strikes not allowed out only hope lies with the public. Where are you?

A Christmas Prayer

To the Editor: With the Christmas Season upon us, I thought the following 'Christmas Prayer' would be appropriate reading at this time.

Dear Lord, look upon us all today,
And, in thy wondrous way,
Extend, to us new-born hope.
As through uncertainty we grope amid the turmoil of life,
Fraught with hate and strife,
Help us to, ever grateful, be for blessing of prosperity offered by thy loving hand
Spread abroad o'er our land,
And help us all to share with those whose lives are bare,
As we gather at the feast,
Let us not forget the least of those, who in the throes of countless pain and woes,
Seek sustenance to alleviate wounds thrust on them by fate,
Dear Lord, with grateful heart, help us to play our part on life's transient stage;
As we turn each page,
Help us perform our role to achieve a worthy goal, on this Christmas Day, for Peace on Earth, we pray.

Old man winter is coming

The official arrival of winter, a partial lunar eclipse and Comet Kohoutek are among the astronomical highlights of December, according to University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

Winter begins at 7:08 p.m. Dec. 21, Prof. Losh says. At this time, she continues, the sun reaches the winter solstice, the most southerly point of its yearly journey around the earth. From this point onward the days become longer and the nights shorter.

'ONE HOPES THAT early predictions are borne out and Comet Kohoutek becomes visible to the naked eye by the beginning of the month,' the Michigan astronomer says. 'The comet should first be detected in the southeastern sky just before sunrise,' she says, adding that it won't become visible in the evening until after Dec. 28. The best time for viewing the comet will likely be in January, she observes.

Noting that 'it is possible Kohoutek may be far less spectacular than was earlier suggested,' Prof. Losh reports that the comet is developing a faint, diffuse 'tail' that may be some 30 million miles in length.

'The appearance of this comet near Christmas time is reminiscent of similar visitors recorded in four B.C. and Halley's Comet in 11 B.C.,' she points out. 'Both of these comets were mentioned in connection with the interpretation of the Christmas star.'

A partial solar eclipse will occur on Dec. 24, she notes. However, since it will be under way at sunrise at 8:01, it will probably appear only as a small nick at the western edge of the sun.

Some of the most beautiful and colorful stars of the whole year shine during December, Prof. Losh says. The yellow star Capella can be found in the Constellation Auriga; the orange Aldebaran in Taurus; Rigel and the giant red Betelgeuse in Orion; and Castor, bluish white, and Pollux, faintly yellow, in Gemini. The 'Star of the East,' the brightest in the whole sky, is Sirius. This star is found in Canis Major, the 'dog of Orion.'

A fitting sign of the season is Cygnus, the Northern Cross, which can be found in the northwest, Prof. Losh says.

TREE LIGHTER—Little Earl J. Boling, the son of Earl E. Boling of 15718 Springhill Dr., Romulus, was this year's official "Christmas Tree Lighter" in Romulus. Earl pushed the button, lighting the tree to officially welcome Santa Claus to the city for the first time this year.—Enterprise-Roman photo.

Van Buren school board orders fuel energy cutbacks

Several orders to eliminate the unnecessary usage of school buses and other steps to conserve energy recently were approved by the Van Buren Board of Education.

Following a lengthy discussion on the current energy crisis and how the district can help with the nationwide problem, the board of education approved the discontinuance of field trips, spectator buses for away games, Christmas program rehearsals and South Junior High School swimming practice.

In addition the school board, district's administration and the Michigan State Liquor Control Commission (MLCC) for a Class C liquor license for use in the township. The request was tabled for further study.

Township reappoints women as canvassers

A recommendation submitted by Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer, calling for the reappointment of Mrs. Barbara Miller and Mrs. Jane Wyman, both of Belleville, to the township's board of canvassers has been approved by the township trustees.

Both Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Wyman will serve new four-year terms ending Dec. 31, 1977.

Other members of the canvassing board are Mrs. Gabrielle Mussehl and Mrs. Mary Lochrie.

Other matters considered by the trustees at their recent meeting include:

—A request for a dance permit filed by Raymond

Verrot of Belleville, owner and operator of the Blue Boar Inn, located at 41111 Huron River Dr., Van Buren Township. The trustees tabled formal action on the request until Dec. 11.

—permission to the Belleville Area Lions Club to put their Christmas display on the lawn of the old Van Buren Township Hall, 405 Main St., Belleville from Dec. 15 until Dec. 31.

—study of a request from Little Caesar Enterprises for approval of its application to the Michigan State Liquor Control Commission (MLCC) for a Class C liquor license for use in the township. The request was tabled for further study.

studying other ways of conserving what appears to be an inadequate gasoline supply for buses.

At the recent meeting of the board of education, its business manager, Irvin Von Destinon and Van Buren School Supt. Dale E. Kaulitz said the December supply of gasoline of 6,000 gallons received from the Gulf Oil Company was short by 1,500 gallons.

Officials of the firm reported that gasoline deliveries for January and February "may get worse."

Regarding heating fuel and electricity, the board decided that temperatures in all buildings in the district should be maintained at 68 degrees and at 60 degrees on weekends and during vacation period.

In addition teachers, students and other employees are being asked to turn off unnecessary lights, close outside doors and take other reasonable measures to conserve heating fuel and electricity.

Proposals, which would change kindergarten busing and limit elementary and high school student usage of bus services to those who live beyond walking distances, are under study by the board of education.

Avoid yule traffic jams

Driving tips ease problems

This is the time of year when all drivers envy the man or woman who can say: "My Christmas shopping is finished - with no major traffic problems!"

To help all Romulus drivers, Chief of Police Jacob J. Koch offered the following suggestions endorsed by the International Association of Chiefs of Police to make the Christmas season a safe one.

If possible alter your driving schedule to avoid rush hour traffic.

CONSIDER THE benefits of an alternate route which bypasses known areas of traffic congestion, slippery hills and other obstacles and danger points with which you may be familiar.

Drive with caution when pavements are slippery to avoid skids, which could result in an accident. Accidents, in addition to being unpleasant and sometimes tragic, can tie up traffic faster than anything else.

Use proved traction devices in bad weather. Tests by the National Safety Council show that winterized tires can help and that reinforced tire chains provide the ultimate in winter traction for deep snow and ice. Allow a safe distance between cars. If the fellow ahead gets into trouble, you're in trouble, too — and a holiday traffic jam is born.

OBEY ALL traffic laws. They were established to prevent confusion and traffic tie-ups.

In extremely bad winter weather, if your trip isn't really essential, stay home.

PTO meet hosts drug abuse talk

A discussion on drug abuse and the role of the Romulus Help Center in dealing with the problem was on the agenda at the recent meeting of the Beverly School's Parent-Teacher Organization.

The members heard a discussion led by Mrs. Naomi Pinchuk, social worker, and Crannel Jerald, drug rehabilitation counselor, both from the center.

The program also included a demonstration of modern class room equipment in which the parents participated.

Using various multi-media equipment, parents learned how a number of lessons can be taught simultaneously.

Life expectancy

The expectation of life among the population of India in the last decade of the 19th century was 23.7 years.

NEW STUDENT COUNSELOR — F. Robert Harkai, of Belleville, new student counselor at Belleville High School, and his assistant, Ellen Isackson, a teacher at the high school, discuss operations of the high school's student service center. Harkai is also program director and a member of the board of trustees of "The Number," Belleville's crisis-counseling center. Harkai assumed his new role at the high school on Dec. 1.

Former residents honored

Former Bellevillites, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gotts of Largo, Florida were guests of honor at a recent reception given by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gotts in Safety Harbor, Florida. The party marked the former couple's 64th wedding anniversary which fell November 25.

The Gottses, who were married in 1909 in Wyandotte, now live at 1021 15th Avenue, Largo, where they have resided for 17 years, after having wintered there since 1926.

Romulus couple wed at St. Paul's

MRS. DON NIEMAN

Double ring vows were exchanged at St. Paul's Lutheran Church October 27 between Barbara Maciejewski and Don Nieman, both of Romulus. The six o'clock rite was conducted by the Rev. Daniel Richert before some 275 assembled relatives and friends. For the occasion, the altar was graced with bouquets of orange gladiolus and white mums.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maciejewski of 37460 Heroux, Romulus, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She appeared in a gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a high lace neckline on a scalloped illusion bodice. Her long, full sleeves ended in ruffled cuffs with the ruffle being repeated on the bouffant skirt of the gown.

A Juliet cap secured her chapel-length veil which was banded in lace and a bouquet of white daisies, carnations and baby's breath completed her outfit.

AS HER SISTER'S honor attendant, Margaret Debozy of New Boston donned a bright orange frock with a softly gathered skirt ruffled at the hemline. White daisy trim accented the long sleeves and ruffle. Her white wide-brimmed hat was encircled with orange trim and she held a bouquet of daisies and carnations.

Wearing identical ensembles, the bridesmaids were Debbie Nieman of Garden City, sister-in-law of the bride; Karen McFall of Romulus and Chris Nieman of Belleville, sister and sister-in-law, respectively, of the bride; Karen Maxwell of Romulus; and Paulette Jones of Ypsilanti, another sister-in-law.

Six-year old Dawn Debozy of New Boston was her aunt's flowergirl and four-year old Jeffery Debozy his aunt's ringbearer.

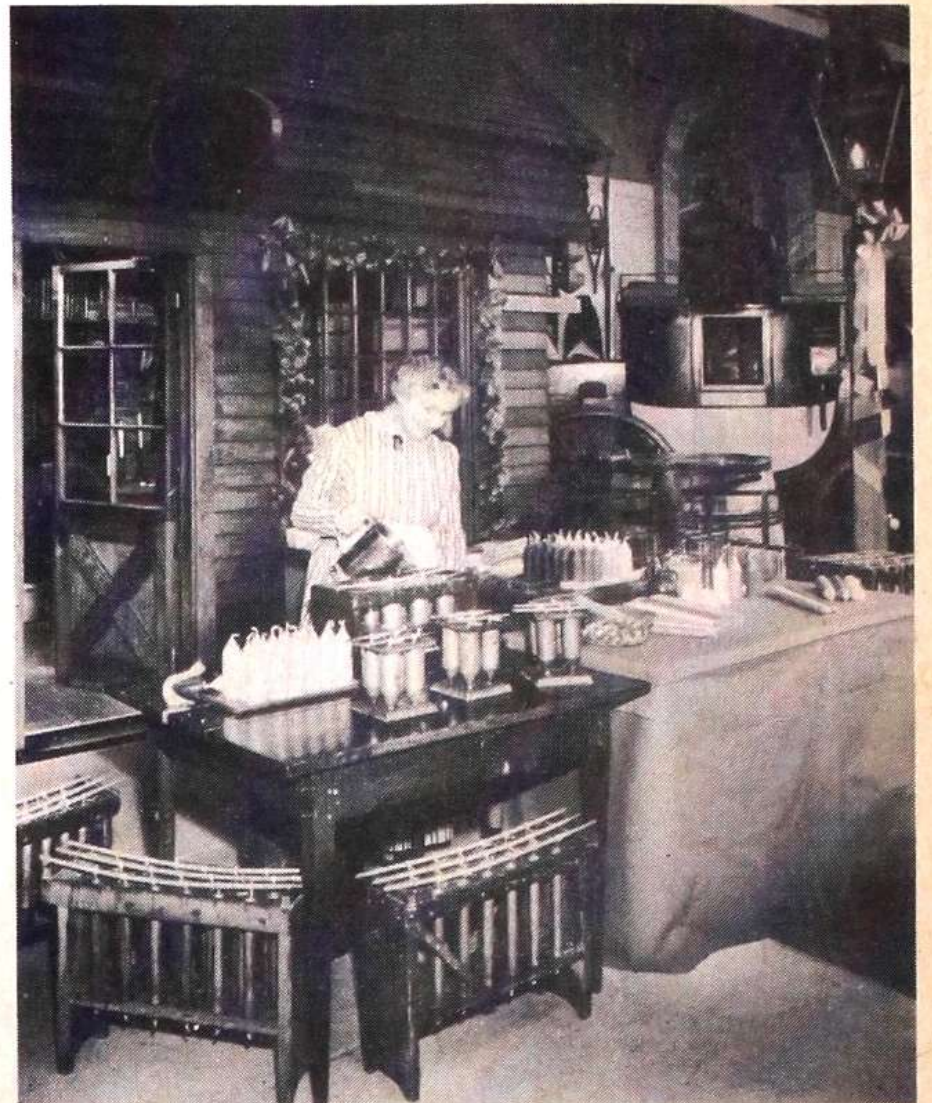

Best man was the bride's brother-in-law, Alvin Debozy of New Boston. Ushers included Dan Nieman of Garden City, brother of the bridegroom; Norm McFall of Romulus, brother-in-law of the bride; Dave Nieman of Belleville, another brother; Phillip Poet of Taylor; and Ken Jones of Ypsilanti, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

MRS. MACIEJEWSKI wore for her daughter's wedding a floor-length gown of hot pink polyester with a sleeveless lace top and silver accessories. Her corsage was comprised of pink tipped carnations and pink roses.

Following their reception at the Romulus Progressive Club, the newlyweds spent a week honeymooning in the Pocono Mountain Honeymoon Resort and are now at home at 38884 Huron River Drive, Romulus.

The bride, was graduated from Romulus High School and the Ann Arbor Practical Nursing Center. Her husband, also a Romulus graduate, is employed at Hyatt Construction in Wayne.

The Albert Niemans entertained at the rehearsal dinner which was held at the Moose Hall in Taylor. Twenty-four guests were invited.

AT THE MUSEUM — A candlemaker demonstrates her skill during the special "Crafts at Christmas" exhibit in Henry Ford Museum. From December 8 through 31 more than a dozen artisans will be at work along the Street of Early American Shops, while old-fashioned decorations line the museum aisles and traditional Christmas music fills the air.

Fourth daughter added to family

By MRS. JOSEPH SPRING 699-1021

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rochowiak of Elwell Rd. are announcing the birth of a baby girl at Beyer Hospital, Ypsilanti, on Saturday, December 1, weight 7 lbs.-6 oz. The young lady, whose mother is the former Janet Harris, has been named Dawn Carol. She has three big sisters to help with her care.

MRS. RUTH Carter, who has been a patient at Annapolis Hospital, Wayne, is now convalescing at her home on Biggs St.

MR. AND MRS. Lloyd Orr of Harmony Lane spent last Saturday in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, with the latter's aunt, Mrs. John Hartzell.

MR. AND MRS. Henry Deering of W. Columbia Ave. were callers last Sunday afternoon at the Stanley Miller home near Willis. Mrs. Miller, who has been ill for some time, was found to be much improved.

SATURDAY evening guests at the Denton Rd. home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle were their son-in law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Statham, of Milford.

AFTER HAVING spent some time in Garden City Hospital fighting a bad case of pneumonia, Fred Bawden is now convalescing at his home on Bemis Rd.

LAST WEDNESDAY afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Gillman D. Muller of Madelon St. were callers on friends, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Fehlig, of Dearborn.

MRS. HAROLD Klais of River Rouge was a caller last Saturday afternoon at the Clayton Saunders home on Liberty St.

MR. AND MRS. William Fleishan of Dearborn were Saturday guests of the latter's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Miller, of Second St.

Steaks on a budget

Have you tried pork cubed steaks? Boneless and quick to prepare, they can contribute to the success of a budget meal. Breeding before pan-frying stretches that great pork flavor and gives each tender steak a tasty, crunchy coat. Simply dredge the pork cubed steaks in seasoned bread crumbs, dip in an egg-milk mixture (two tablespoons milk per egg) and dredge in crumbs again to coat thoroughly. Lightly brown breaded pork steaks on both sides in lard or drippings. Cook at a moderate temperature 20 to 25 minutes, or until done, turning occasionally to insure even cooking. Delicious!

Shannon Marie is christened

SHANNON MARIE McCloskey was three weeks old when she received the sacrament of baptism November 25 at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Father Ramond Skoney presided at the rite with Fred Gorney and Marie Hall, both of Belleville, as Godparents.

Following the christening, Shannon's mom and dad, the James McCloskeys, entertained at dinner at Rogalle's Lounge. Guests along with the sponsors were the baby's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Art Gorney of Belleville.

When the group returned home they found about 30 friends and relatives waiting with surprise gifts and refreshments in honor of little Shannon.

Grandmas 'sub' for missing dad

WHEN KAY SALA decided it was time to go to the hospital for the birth of her second child, she had her mother and mother-in-law pacing the floor in the waiting room which, traditionally, is reserved for expectant fathers. But members of the distaff side of the family took over since the prospective dad, P.F.C. Frank Sala was still in Germany completing his stint with the U.S. Army.

The new little Sala, Dennis Michael, put in his appearance December 4 at Garden City Hospital, his weight being recorded at an even six pounds.

His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sala of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Matsche of Wayne. He is the great-grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bohl and Mrs. Victoria Sala, all of Belleville, and the little brother of 17-months old Amy Marie.

Her 94th birthday is holiday event

THE 94TH BIRTHDAY of Mrs. Pauline Temple was observed Thanksgiving Day when members of her family gathered to give double thanks on the holiday. The honoree's daughter and husband, Marlene and Ed Manier, and their children, Jim, Vickie and Danny, entertained at the dual celebration.

Guests included a son and daughter-in-law, Kenneth and Betty Temple from Boynton Beach, Florida; a daughter, Cora Yoder, and her husband, Milt, from Detroit; and a granddaughter, Mrs. Shirley (Temple) Willoughby from Bell Buckle, Tennessee.

Still others were Mrs. Temple's great-grandchildren: Larry and Nancy Michels from Atlanta, Michigan; Rodney Walczak of Belleville; Rich and Christine (Walczak) James and their little daughter, Michele, of Belleville. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Michels from Atlanta, Michigan.

Mrs. Temple, who has lived in the Belleville-Wayne area all of her life, is the mother of eight sons and one daughter, four of whom are still living. Her husband, Frank, passed away some 10 years ago.

She has many friends who call on her at the Van Buren Convalescent Home where she is active in her card parties and pot-luck dinners. For her birthday she received many gifts, some of which she modeled for her family. Following the turkey dinner, she recited several poems and sang a few songs much to the group's delight.

Showers held during school break

RECENT GUESTS of Mr. and Mrs. Park E. Gregory of Brain Avenue were their daughters, Gloria Gardner and her husband, Richard, and Joyce L. Gregory who was home from Michigan State University with her fiancé, Scott A. Silvenis. The Elders Sorenson and Cooley were also in from Salt Lake City, Utah for a visit.

While home, Joyce was the guest of honor at two showers given for her by Cindy Ferrier and Gloria Gardner.

Cindy entertained at her parents' home on Willow Run Expressway with about 10 guests (mostly school friends) attending the miscellaneous event and enjoying dessert and the gift presentation. The red and white color scheme of the pending wedding was used.

On November 23 Mrs. Gardner played host at her home on Chaney Street - the theme of the shower being 'Pennsylvania Dutch' with decor including colorful patchwork and dry flower arrangements.

Guests showering Joyce with miscellanea for her new home were her future mother-in-law, Mrs. Stanley Silvenis, who arrived with her mother, Mrs. Jeanette Wargo, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Leonard Silvenis. Still others were Mrs. Cade Gardner, Mrs. Leif Meland and Mrs. Park Gregory.

Several games were played before refreshments and the opening of gifts.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in East Lansing was reserved for the couple's wedding last Saturday.

New grandson prompts trip

THE FORREST Shirleys of Wexford Avenue, Belleville, became grandparents a second time with the adoption of a baby boy by their daughter and son-in-law, Patricia and Mark Wiley of Rialto, California. The new addition, born in Tennessee November 9, has been titled Brandon Mark.

The Shirleys made a quick trip the week-end of November 17 to Johnson City, Tennessee to see the new baby and his mother and to spend a couple of days with their other daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lilley, and their little son, Allen.

Neighbors 'shower' expectant mother

SOHRET SOZNER, a native of Turkey, has been living on Rynar Drive for just a couple years and is still getting adjusted to our American ways. Last week she had the rather nice experience of being honored at a baby shower - something that's not done in her country.

When her neighbors learned she was expecting her first baby sometime this month, they put their heads together and came up with a 12:30 luncheon for December 5. Held at the home of Gladys Baldwin, the guest list included 17 neighborhood women and three friends of the honoree from out of town. Evelyn Krug planned the invitations, little shower booklet and afternoon entertainment which followed the chicken salad luncheon.

Couple honeymoons in Pocono Mountains

Twelve members of their families were included in the bridal coterie of 16 which attended Doretta Evanski and Gary D. Hawkins at their wedding October 27 in St. Stephen's Catholic Church of New Boston. The eleven o'clock nuptial high mass was read by the Rev. Alexander J. Wytrowski before some 150 assembled guests.

The double ring rite united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evanski of 14000 Hoeft Road, Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hawkins of 6445 Winona Avenue, Allen Park.

Two vases of white fuji mums and snapdragons adorned the altar as Dorrie approached with her father. Music for the ceremony was played by Mrs. Dorothy Roberts and sung by Julia Micik.

DURING THE nuptial rite, the bride crowned the statue of the Blessed Virgin with a crown of white fuji mums and also presented her with a rosary of fresh white roses.

'On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother' was played during the ritual.

For her wedding day, Dorrie selected a gown of Chantilly lace and miramist, the bodice featuring a high scalloped neckline with teardrops, pearls and sequins arranged in a sunburst pattern on the illusion yoke. Her puffed long sleeves tapered to points at the wrist with the same semi-precious jewels accenting the cuffs. Cascades of ruffles alternated with pencil pleats to form her bouffant skirt with Chantilly lace comprising her chapel train.

A heart-shaped crown of crystals and pearls secured her three-tiered fingertip veil and cascading white fuji mums, Auburn Abby roses, yellow mums, stephanotis and baby's breath completed her bridal finery. Two roses from her bouquet were presented to her mother and her bridegroom's mother as she walked up the aisle.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Mrs. John (Sandra) Betsinger, came from Scalthorpe, England to serve as honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Gail Hawkins of Allen Park; Mrs. Paul (Trudy) Roddick of Plymouth; Deborah Evanski and Patricia Evanski, all sisters of the bride; Sharon Ackron of Belleville and Susan Huryn of Detroit, cousins of the bride and bridegroom, respectively; and the flowergirl, Cheryl Snyder of Romulus, another of the bride's cousins.

The matron of honor and flowergirl wore burnt orange velvet frocks with melon taffeta and chiffon while the others were in forest green velvet with lime green for contrast.

Their Martha Washington mode gowns were made with sweetheart necklines, puffed sleeves of chiffon and side overskirts held with shoestring velvet bows.

Rhinestone tiaras secured their veils which were cut in mid-back length and they carried informal colonial arrangements of yellow and bronze mums, orange star flowers and baby's breath; the flowergirl's being carried in a little basket.

THE BRIDEGROOM asked his brother, Denis, to be best man. The corps of ushers included the bride's brother, Daniel Evanski of Ypsilanti; Ron Jurewicz of Ypsilanti; Neil Johnson of Belleville; Bill Sabot and George O'Farrell of Allen Park; the bride's brother, Steven Evanski of Belleville; and the ringbearer, John Evanski of Carleton, cousin of the bride.

At the wedding breakfast which followed in the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wayne, Mrs. Evanski greeted the 150 guests in a light blue street-length dress of lurex accented with silver threading. For the evening reception, she changed to a dark blue formal gown of polyester crepe with a beaded neckline and cuffs. The bridegroom's mother chose to wear a pink knit dress with silver accessories for the morning activities and for evening she donned an aqua floor-length sleeveless frock. Both mothers were presented with corsages of mums, sweetheart roses and baby's breath to harmonize with their outfits.

Before making their home at 1754 Parkwood, Ypsilanti, the newlyweds spent two weeks in the Pocono Mountains Honeymoon Resort stopping at Niagara Falls and other parts of Canada enroute.

The new Mrs. Hawkins was graduated in 1971 from Belleville High School and will graduate next June with a secretarial degree from Cleary College. She is employed as secretary-receptionist at Environmental Research Institute of Michigan at Belleville.

Her husband, a 1971 alumnus of Allen Park High School, is employed at the Hydra-matic plant at Willow Run.

MR. AND MRS. GARY D. HAWKINS

MIA-MEA honored at BPW dinner party

The MIA-ME Club women were guests of honor at the December 3 meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club. The dinner-meeting was held at South Junior High School.

MIA-ME members, who marked their 26th holiday season sewing garments for needy children, are Elsie Kregg, Angie Enzenauer and Harriet Doty. They were presented with pink rose corsages by Irene Whalen for their many years of service.

Cindy Enzenauer and Tina Ray are also lending a hand in finishing the clothing in time for Christmas.

BPW members donate toys for the children and the club purchases undergarments to complete each of the outfits. These are then wrapped and distributed to needy children in the community.

A highlight of the evening was a reading and beautiful singing of Christmas hymns by Karen Vandecar who was accompanied at the piano by Kathy Duck. Both are teachers at Edgemont Elementary School.

Planning the festive dinner of roast goose with all the trimmings were members of the finance committee: Barbara Mitchell, chairman; Irene Whalen, Mildred Artley and Mary Ferrett.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN MARTIN

Wedding takes place in hospital chapel

The chapel at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne was the scene of the recent wedding of John Martin, a patient at the hospital, and Mrs. Betty Fulton of Belleville.

The Rev. William Gram, pastor of the Grace Baptist Church of Belleville, presided at the nuptial rite which had been planned to coincide with another wedding - that of Mrs. Fulton's son, Gary, and Debra Arndt.

In addition, Mrs. Fulton's oldest daughter had made plans to drive to Michigan from New Jersey for both weddings so it was impossible to re-schedule either.

Mrs. Fulton, a widow for six years, and her new husband first met on a dinner date. "We were to have dinner and go to a show," Mr. Martin said, "but instead we sat all evening over dinner and never did get to that show."

The couple will make their home in Belleville.

Call her Amy Lynn

There's a third presence around the Tom Everard home at 2791 Deake Street, Ypsilanti, these mid-December days - their new daughter, Amy Lynn, who made her debut at 6:34 p.m. December 5. Born at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, the newborn weighed 6 lbs.-6 oz.

The new mother is the former Michelle Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Owen of Edison Lake Road, Belleville.

It's a girl for Hamms

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Hamm of 5033 Willis Road, Belleville, are announcing the arrival of their first child, a daughter, November 23 at Annapolis Hospital, Wayne.

The newcomer, who weighed in at 8 lbs.-2 1/2 oz., has been titled Angelia June.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Hamm Sr. of Bemis Road, Belleville, and Mrs. Sheila Hellman of King Road, Romulus.

Christmas tea held at Kause's

The Huron Valley Garden Club met Monday, December 3, at the festively-decorated home of Mrs. James Kause on Harmony Lane for the annual Christmas meeting and tea.

Mrs. Joseph Moon introduced the program for the occasion - the Methodist Sacred Dance Group with Mrs. James Pollard as soloist and Mrs. Edward Koss as narrator for the presentation.

Following refreshments, a business meeting was conducted by vice-president Mrs. W. Harold Roberts. One new member was voted into membership.

The next regular meeting will be January 7 at the home of Mrs. John Gras with Mrs. Thomas Books as speaker.

Taylor church is reserved for ceremony

St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Taylor was the setting November 10 for the double ring rite which united Sharon Marie Rohde and Jimmie Eugene Defelice in holy matrimony. Vows were exchanged in a five o'clock ceremony conducted by the Rev. Leonard Weigel.

Bouquets of white mums formed the setting at the altar with green bows marking the central pews. Music was played by Mrs. Wilma Quiel with Ann Carter singing "We've Only Just Begun" and "O, Perfect Love."

Escorted to the altar by her father, Sharon appeared in a gown of white silk sateu designed with a fitted bodice and A-line skirt trimmed in Venice lace appliques. A high crown collar, bishop sleeves and a full circular train were other styling details on the bridal gown.

A cluster of white Venetian lace mixed with seed pearls secured her three-tiered silk illusion veil and a cascade bouquet of white roses, carnations and ivy completed her ensemble.

PARENTS of the young couple, all of Romulus, are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rohde of 28255 Goddard Road and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Defelice of 11253 Harrison Road.

The bride chose her sister, Dianna Lynn Rohde, to be maid of honor. She wore a gown in toe-touching length styled with a velvet bodice, lantern sleeves and polyester print circular skirt with satin ribbon trim all in Caribbean-romance color. Her cascade bouquet was comprised of blue carnations as was that carried by the flowergirl.

Attendants in identical frocks of rouge-azalea were Magie Betz, a cousin from Norfolk, Virginia, and Gail Trumble, a friend from Romulus. All three wore Juliet caps of matching flowered organza with velvet trim with the two bridesmaids holding cascade bouquets of pink carnations.

Eight-year old Susan Boltz, daughter of the Melvin Boltzs, wore a miniature version of the senior attendants' frocks for her role as flowergirl.

David Rohde, eight-year old son of the Charles Rohdes, performed as ringbearer.

BEST MAN was James Wood of Romulus and groomsmen were Bob Rohde of Taylor, the bride's cousin; and Joe Rohde and Danny Defelice, brothers of the bridegroom.

The Romulus Progressive Club was reserved for the reception which followed. The 400 guests were greeted by Mrs. Rohde in a pink formal-length dress to which she pinned her corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a gown of blue with a yellow rose corsage for contrast.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Henry Rohde, great-aunt of the bride, who came with her daughter and son-in-law, the Jim Harries, from Marquette; the Kenneth Gosnells, cousins of the bride from Indianapolis, Indiana; the Earl Polenz, cousins of the bride from California; the Fred Sabatinis and Elmo Sabatini from Smithfield, Ohio and the Paul Hoods, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom from Medina, Ohio.

For traveling to Northern Michigan, the new Mrs. Defelice changed to a beige double-knit pant suit. The newlyweds are now making their home at 11125 Harrison, Romulus.

Both graduates of Romulus High School, Sharon is employed at Vacuum Orna Metal in Romulus and Jimmie is with the Ford Motor Company at Livonia.

The Charles Rohdes entertained at the rehearsal dinner in their home.

American Embassy is scene of recent rite

Hope Charmaine Damer-ville and Ronald Michael McClue were married in a civil ceremony at the American Embassy in Tokyo, on Oct. 24. The following day they exchanged vows in a religious service at Base Chapel II, Misawa AFB, Japan, with Chaplain Hannemann officiating.

Hope, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Damer-ville, of Winter Park, Florida, was graduated from Winter Park High School and attended classes at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean McClue of Belleville. He was graduated from John Glenn High School in Westland, and attended Ferris State College.

The couple will live in Misawa where both are stationed as members of the United States Air Force.

Christmas programs set at area churches

By Pearl Morris WH 1-1187

Next Sunday evening (December 16) the choir will present the beautiful cantata "Joy to the World" by John W. Peterson, at the Community United Methodist Church. The cantata's theme is taken from the well known hymn and brings a message to all listeners. The production will begin at 7:30 p.m. under the direction of Mrs. Ada Scott. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

THE SUNDAY School Christmas Program will be presented 7 p.m. Sunday, December 16, at the Calvary Baptist Church on Ozga Road. The Senior High Department will participate in a Christmas play on this occasion. There will also be special music and recitations. On Sunday evening, December 23, the Christmas cantata, "Joy to the World" will be presented at 7 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend these programs.

ON SATURDAY evening, December 22, the Calvary Baptist Senior High Christmas Banquet will be held at the China Star Palace on Wayne Road, starting at 7 p.m. Duane Cuthbertson, director of the Huron Valley Youth for Christ, will be the guest speaker. The Senior High Group extends a special invitation to members of the Career Class and to all young married people to attend. The cost is $5.25 each, which includes buffet dinner and dessert. For tickets see John Hilton.

LOCAL 4-H teens and leaders who are interested in attending the Teen-Leader Recreation Team Training Center at Tustin, Michigan are advised to contact the 4-H Secretary at the local Extension Office as soon as possible. Phone either 721-6576 or 721-6550. There will be training in games and activities for local club work, recreational music, singing musical mixers, folk games, dances, and creative entertainment of various kinds.

MR. AND MRS. Virgil Varner of Haggerty Road entertained at a family birthday dinner at five o'clock Sunday afternoon in celebration of the fourth birthday of their son, Darius. Fourteen persons sat down to a ham and venison dinner complete with a lighted birthday cake and party poppers. Mrs. Varner is the former Pearl Hay of Romulus.

FAYE SAVAGE, eldest child of the Harley Savages of Goddard Road, graduated Sunday, December 9, at Commencement Exercises held in Bowen Field House on the campus of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. She received a Bachelor of Arts Degree and majored in math with a minor in computer science. Also graduating from EMU was the former Flora Diepenhorst of Romulus, now Mrs. Steve Enzer of Saline. Flora and Faye both graduated together in the Romulus High School Class of '69. In college Flora majored in special education.

JUNIOR GIRL Scout Troop No. 705 from Romulus Elementary School enjoyed a bowling outing last Tuesday, December 24, at Wayne Bowling and Recreation. This was the first bowling experience for many of the girls. There are 24 girls in the troop, which meets from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Mondays at the Community United Methodist Church on Olive Street. Adults who accompanied the girls on last Tuesday's outing were Mrs. Sheldon Chandler, Mrs. Andrew Butler and Mrs. Harley Savage. Pam Rupert and Belinda Wilson went along as helpers.

ATTENTION 4-H members, leaders and parents! Charlotte and Bob Cook are taking the leadership in initiating improvements in the physical appearance of the small farm at the Wayne County Fairgrounds on Quirk Road. They need help in raising money and in getting the work done. If you are interested in assisting in any way in getting this project done, please phone Charlotte at 453-2638 or Bob at 697-8822.

MR. AND MRS. W.L. Sheppard are convalescing at home on Romulus Avenue and progressing satisfactorily after being injured in an automobile accident near Pontiac November 9.

Pan-fried perfection

Comparatively thin slices of beef steak, often made tender by pounding, scoring or cubing, can be panfried for a speedy and satisfying meal. Especially popular choices for panfrying are cubed steak and thin slices (1/2 inch thick or less) cut from the sirloin tip or round. The steaks are browned on both sides in a small amount of fat. Some cuts will cook in the fat from the meat; others will require additional fat to cover the surface of the frying pan to prevent sticking. Do not cover the meat. Cook at a moderate temperature, turning occasionally, to desired degree of doneness. Season with salt and pepper after browning, if desired. Remove from pan and serve at once.

Belleville's UM stenos 'shine' in campaign

Two Belleville women, secretaries at the University of Michigan, were responsible for their department's success in the recent United Fund Campaign.

For most of the University, this year's UF program lasted about six weeks and in a tough economic year, the effort narrowly missed its $300,000 goal.

For the Department of Sociology, though, the campaign might have ended in a week and still been considered a success. Debbie Polzin and Kathleen Vargo conducted the campaign in that department and the enthusiasm and attitude of the two volunteers seemed at least partially responsible for the department's accomplishment.

THE TWO young women, who live on the same street in Belleville, are good friends.

and gradually increases fuel consumption."

By increasing the air's water vapor content, you reduce the loss of moisture from the skin and feel warmer, he explains.

The amount of water vapor in the air is usually expressed as "relative humidity." This is the ratio of water actually in the air to the amount of water vapor the air at that temperature can hold.

THE CAPACITY for air to hold water vapor nearly doubles for every 20-degree rise in temperature, Van Den Brink explains. Therefore if we bring the cold outside air into our homes and heat it without adding moisture to it, the relative humidity drops drastically.

"For example," he says, "if the outside temperature is 30 degrees and the relative humidity is 50 percent, the same air brought into the home with no moisture added would have a relative humidity of only 12 percent at 70 degrees."

Though cooking, washing, bathing and growing plants add some moisture to the air, the amounts are generally insignificant. To avoid drying skin and nasal membranes, the buildup of static electricity, the loosening of furniture joints and that familiar chilly feeling, you have to find some way to put some moisture into the air.

You could use a humidifier built into your heating system or a separate unit. Your choice depends on the size of your home, how well it is insulated, whether there are storm windows and how much cooking and washing takes place.

The level of humidity you can maintain depends in part on the outside temperature, Van Den Brink notes.

"A 35 to 40 percent level is usually adequate," he says, "but during very cold weather you may have to accept 25 percent, because condensation on windows may take moisture out of the air as fast as the humidifier adds it."

TO AVOID excessive condensation that may damage window frames, sills and walls, humidifier controls should generally be set at lower levels during extremely cold periods, he suggests.

"Watch the windows in your home," he advises. "If they are free of all moisture, chances are you can turn up the controls. If they're running with water, your controls are probably set too high."

Storm windows will cut down condensation and permit you to maintain higher humidity levels.

In a poorly insulated home, condensation will sometimes occur on the walls. Unless corrected, it can cause a great deal of damage.

The consequences of too much moisture point up the importance of using good judgment when humidifying, Van Den Brink says.

"Protect your health, provide for your personal comfort, keep the furniture from falling apart, but don't make the place dripping wet trying to cut down on fuel consumption," he urges.

Beef appetizer

Cubes or slices of roast beef make popular appetizers. Simply serve a tasty dip such as horseradish or blue cheese with the cubes. Or spread the slices with the dip, roll up jelly roll fashion and secure with small wooden picks.

For Christmas Pumpkin bread

PUMPKIN BREAD

1 cup oil
3 cups sugar
4 eggs
Two-thirds cup water
1 can pumpkin (small can equals 2 cups)
3 cups flour
1 1/2 tps. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. ginger
2 tps. soda

1/2 tsp. baking powder
Two-thirds cup nuts
Two-thirds cup dates

Mix the first five ingredients together, then add flour sifted with spices, soda & baking powder. Fold in dates & nuts. Pour into well-greased loaf pan or three medium size tomato juice cans. Bake one hour and 15 minutes at 350 degrees.

Red Cross alters malarial donor ban

Once rejected as volunteer blood donors because of birth or visitation in malarial areas, thousands of Detroit area residents are eligible to donate blood at the Red Cross.

Red Cross Blood Program Medical Director Sheikh M. Saeed, M.D., said the group's national blood program, headquartered in Washington, D.C., has directed the change in the malaria ruling as a result of extensive research indicating that such an infection is generally burnt out after three years.

The ruling change revokes a 1968 blood program directive. "Donors will be accepted even if they have had clinical malaria, provided that three years elapsed without recurrence," Saeed said. "Individuals native to or who have lived in malarial areas and have received anti-malarial drugs must still wait three years from the date of their last medication before donating."

He added, that if there is no episode of malaria, travellers from malarial areas are acceptable six months after returning to the United States.

"Although the incidence of malaria differs in each country, the World Health Organization has assigned 106 countries the malarial status," Saeed said. "The areas are located primarily along the equator."

Good beef buys ahead

Sharply reduced wholesale beef prices signal a period of good meat values ahead for consumers. In addition to recent increasing slaughter levels, the industry is in the normal seasonal bulge in marketing of all species.

Because of increased supplies, there is reason to expect that prices in the future will stabilize at levels that will be attractive to consumers and yet not discourage future growth in livestock production, according to the National Live Stock & Meat Board. While no one expects meat prices to fall to levels of past years, supplies in sight should offer the consumer and her family more variety at attractive prices. With a return to near normal marketing patterns, the industry will likely see much more stable pricing of both livestock and meat.

A JOB WELL DONE—Rep. Gary Owen of Ypsilanti (second from right) presents copies of a House concurrent resolution of appreciation to the citizens of the City of Belleville, Van Buren Township and to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for their cooperation in October's massive fish removal from Belleville Lake. Accepting the resolution, at the Dec. 6 Natural Resources Commission meeting, are (from left) Belleville Chamber of Commerce President John Barber, Van Buren Township Supervisor G.E. Gollwitzer and Belleville Mayor Royce Smith. An estimated 1,000 area citizens pitched in to see the project through, helping in the cleanup of a million pounds of dead rough fish, providing food to workers and financial assistance to the project. Department officials say the project could not have been completed without the aid of Belleville and Van Buren Township citizens, to which the DNR presented plaques of commendation. The DNR has begun restocking efforts in Belleville Lake, which will see some 13 million game fish planted within the next two years.

DNR expresses appreciation

Cite lake cleanup

Government officials and residents of the City of Belleville and Van Buren Township have received the official commendations of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for their assistance in the Belleville Lake fish restocking program.

The state's recognition of the city-township contribution in the lake clean-up and dead fish removal project and the DNR's commendation were presented to local officials at a special DNR ceremony held in Lansing Thursday afternoon.

A resolution, commending Belleville Mayor Royce E. Smith, Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer, John Barber, president of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce, and Belleville resident Bruce Bearance, was passed by both houses of the state legislature last month.

THE RESOLUTION of special thanks, which DNR officials urged State Rep. Gary M. Owen (D-Van Buren) representing the 22nd District, to introduce, was presented to the local government leaders who accepted it in behalf of the their respective communities.

DNR officials said the game huge dead fish cleanup fish restocking of the six-mile long Belleville Lake and the program may have been the largest in the United States.

Township appealboard grants zoning changes

Van Buren Township' newly created five-member Board of appeals has granted two requested appeals on the township's present zoning regulations.

A request, filed by Leona Farr, of 43174 Judd Rd., Belleville, for permission to put in a cake decorating supply shop adjacent to her beauty shop, 643 Sumpter Rd. was approved.

A variance also was approved to allow the construction of a home by Hassel Shortridge, of 1680 Victor St., Ypsilanti, on a Belleville site, presently zoned for industrial use.

Shortridge was told by the board that he would be unprotected from any industry that might move into Martz Road area.

Belleville yule tree shines on Belleville's annual Christmas tree again will occupy its familiar spot in Victory Park, located on Huron River Drive at Main Street.

The 40-foot high Christmas tree, one of two large Christmas trees to be displayed in town, will be decorated this year by students, attending various Van Buren Public Schools under the direction of city employees.

Art class students will make the decorations and will be assisted by the student councils of South Junior High School, North Junior High School and students at the Edgemont Elementary School.

By recent orders of the Belleville City Council, the city's Christmas tree will be lighted only during limited hours this year because of the energy crisis.

Recreational physical fitness

Area residents shape up

The Physical Fitness Program, conducted by the Van Buren Township's Recreation Department, is proving to be "tremendously helpful and beneficial in keeping in shape" for township residents, according to reports from program participants.

Persons, who have taken part in various stages of the physical fitness program during the last two years have said their physical condition and mode of living greatly have improved, said Ben R. Robertson, program director.

Robertson was a physical training instructor prior to his appointment as the township's planning coordinator and director of its industrial development committee.

AT THE PRESENT time there are 50 persons enrolled in the program. Its cost is $2 per month.

A class for children is available at 50 cents per hour per family.

The children learn skills, play games and listen to stories and music and have refreshments periodically during the class.

Each person, according to Robertson, must adhere to the following procedures when he joins the class:

First, the person takes a physical examination from his doctor. He then discusses the program with the physical fitness director and is given reading materials relating the program.

IN THE third requirement, the individual is put into the "red group" for a minimum of four weeks. This is a pre-conditioning program in which individual build, up to the program safely.

Fourth, after the person has completed his "red group" training, he is given a physical fitness test consisting of —a walk or jog as far as possible in 12 minutes. It is stressed that the individual not over exert himself even during testing.

—as many sit-ups as possible in four minutes.

—as many pull-ups as possible in three minutes.

—as many push-ups as possible in two minutes.

—as many jumps with a rope as possible in five minutes.

After the test is concluded, the physical fitness director analyzes it, based on pulse rates, and recovery pulse rates, the individual's age, weight, height and the time he can spend on a fitness program.

Based on this examination, each individual is given a 16-week program to follow along with a weight reduction program, if needed, given to him by his doctor.

Bicycle hikes also are part of the program during spring, summer and fall months.

"The basic philosophy of the class is to have fun while achieving physical fitness," Robertson said.

THE TERROR RIDE—At midnight on New Year's Eve the S.S. Poseldon was struck by a 90 foot tidal wave and capsized. The story of the terror that filled the lives of character's played by Gene Hackman (from left), Roddy McDowall, Carol Lynley and Shelley Winters is portrayed in "The Poseidon Adventure," now playing at the State-Wayne Theater in Wayne.

In Wayne

Arts and crafts display open

Christmas in the colonies was vastly different than Christmas, 1974, but "The World of Art & Craft," currently displayed at Metro Place Mall in Wayne, brings a little bit of the old-fashioned, personal touch back to the season.

In Colonial America, Christmas was a season, and not a single day of celebration. As long as the Yule log burned, a holiday from work lasted. The halls were decked with holly, laurel and ivy, and doorways were hung with mistletoe to claim a kiss from any maiden who paused beneath it.

On Christmas Day, there were services in evergreen-decorated churches, and feasting in the house. Gifts were bestowed on servants, tradespeople, and friends, but family members did not exchange presents.

MOST OF AMERICA'S beloved Christmas customs came with the settlers from England, Holland, and Germany.

In the 17th Century, the English had brought to the Southern colonies, the love of holly wreaths, evergreen garlands, nut trees, and bunches of mistletoe.

Crafts and customs changed when they were transported from the Old World to the new. Decorating for Christmas became a composite which was typically American. The "World of Art and Craft" is an opportunity for you to enjoy some of these hand crafted items.

You also can observe some of these items being made and the artists will be happy to discuss their techniques.

YOU WILL FIND displayed such old fashioned crafts as handmade, apple dolls, the kind the settler's children played with, nut trees, hand made candles, and Christmas decorations and centerpieces, as well as other hand made gift items for everyone on your gift list.

"The World of Art and Craft" is open daily 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

Honored for volunteer work

Travelers Aid group fetes women

The Travelers Aid Society of Detroit recently celebrated its 50th anniversary with a dinner in the Aviation Room of the Hilton Inn in Romulus.

The dinner not only marked the aid society's half-century of service to travelers and people on the move, but also honored its volunteers, who staff booths at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus.

Among the honored volunteers were Belleville residents Mrs. Dorothy Westergard and Mrs. Carol Sylvester.

The guest speaker at the dinner was Frans Heideman, director of the executive division of the Wayne County Sheriff's office.

Travelers Aid is a United Foundation agency, which helps travelers in need of information and aid in locating someone.

It also provides help to travelers in trouble and assists children, the aged and the handicapped traveling alone.

Travelers Aid includes emergency help and counseling and arranges for social services for newcomers, immigrants, migrant workers, runaways and the hundreds of persons yearly who flee their homes to avoid some crisis or problem.

Douglas decays

Some 400 million board feet of lumber from dead Douglas fir trees may decay before loggers can cut the trees, this year.

Meter errors costly

Lost zeros total $20,000

Inept meter readers for past Sumpter Township administrations have caused two area trailer courts to be $20,000 behind the actual rise in water rates in their water billings, an official said.

"And they're not too happy about it either," Sumpter Township Clerk Clarence Hoffman added.

An audit of township records showed that during past administrations, water meter readers failed to add two painted two zeros on to the amount of water used by the trailer courts.

When the error was discovered, the trailer courts suddenly were in debt to the tune of $10,000 each.

Rosedale Woods and Holiday Woods and Holiday West trailer court representatives will meet with the auditor, who discovered the error, and township officials to determine a settlement on the bills.

Hoffman blamed the error on untrained employees in political jobs.

"Sumpter Township has had a turbulent past, politically, and changes in employees were rapid. There was never an opportunity to train them properly," Hoffman said. "That's the only excuse for a mistake like this."

Seniors elect club officers

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club has announced the election of its new officers for 1974.

Those selected were Ollie Hunter as club president, Mike Sirdanik as vice president, Velma Kulzer as secretary and Jean Randall, treasurer. Trustees elected were Nell Van Wormer, William Law and Nelson Nadeau.

The club holds its regular weekly meeting at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Edgemont Elementary School, 124 Edgemont St., Belleville.

Dec. 20, the club will meet at the school at 6:30 p.m. for the annual Christmas banquet.

On Dec. 20, the club will meet at the school at 6:30 p.m. for the annual Christmas banquet.

The club-sponsored feast will be catered by Mrs. Lucille Remus. The Dec. 27 meeting has been postponed for the Christmas holidays.

Road rally proceeds aid Belleville's crisis center

Some 27 cars and 80 people participated in a road rally recently held for the benefit of "The Number," the Belleville area's crisis-counseling center.

The rally, which covered a distance of 75 miles, was termed a success by The Rev. David Lee, president of the board of directors and a trustee of "The Number."

The three top cars were presented with trophy-plaques.

Among those entering the rally was a school bus containing 15 to 20 adults and children. A registration fee of $4 per car was charged.

Communications with the cars were provided by amateur radio ham operators who manned seven radio-equipped mobile units at check points along the route.

The proceeds of the road rally will be used toward the operation of The Number.

"The Number," located in the central business district of Belleville, is designed to provide telephone counseling and problem assistance for drug-related problems, family pregnancies, and emotional crisis.

The crisis-counseling number is 699-2039.

Bill resurrects issue of Vietnam vets' bonus

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK
State Representative
38th District

My effort to obtain bonuses for veterans of the Vietnam era has moved into position for House debate and vote following its unanimous approval by the House Appropriations Committee.

The proposal, however, would require voter approval, since it's financing involves a state bond issue.

The issue was defeated in the 1972 general election, but it was my feeling that voters should have another chance at it. The 1972 election also included a number of other, controversial items which I feel worked against the Vietnam bonus.

MICHIGAN HAS provided bonuses for veterans of other wars, and I consider the veterans of the Vietnam era no less deserving.

My proposal would provide for a maximum $600 cash bonus for combat veterans, or those who served overseas.

There also would be a lesser bonus, based on months of service, for those who did not serve overseas during the time of the Vietnam conflict.

There are 422,849 veterans who potentially would be eligible for the bonus. Under my plan, the state would issue general obligation bonds to repay the estimated $180 million cost of the bonuses.

Unlike the 1972 ballot proposal, this one does not include education benefits for veterans, which reduces the overall cost to the taxpayers.

MEANWHILE, the House has taken action on a number of other bills.

One of them would qualify diabetics as vocationally handicapped for workmen's compensation purposes. This bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate, would make it easier for persons who are diabetic to gain employment in Michigan.

The proposal would include diabetics in the vocationally handicapped section of the workmen's compensation second injury fund law, which relieves an employer of compensation payments after 104 weeks.

After that time, the money for compensation would be taken out of the second injury fund.

The purpose of the bill is to encourage employers to hire diabetics. As it is now, employers may be reluctant to hire them because of their fear of compensation liability.

ANOTHER BILL passed by the House extends the enforcement authority to local governments to make public buildings accessible to handicapped persons.

It also would require that such facilities as lavatories, drinking fountains and telephones in buildings used by the public be constructed to allow use by the physically handicapped.

The bill requires facilities in public buildings constructed, remodeled or renovated after enactment of the new law to meet the requirements for use by the physically handicapped.

The old law is somewhat unclear, not specifying that local officials can enforce its requirements.

OTHER BILLS recently passed by the House:

—permit medical institutions and employees to refuse to perform abortions;

—set safety standards for the operation and maintenance of trucks;

—permit thoroughbred racing at district, community, 4-H and state fairs;

Council fills 9 positions

Nine appointments recommended by Mayor Royce E. Smith, unanimously were approved at last week's meeting of the Belleville City Council.

Councilman Kenneth Palmer was appointed street commissioner. James Baumdraher was named street and department of public works foreman, and Richard Price was approved as plumbing and heating inspector.

Other appointments were Anthony Talaga as fire chief and building inspector. Harold Harris was selected as Talaga's alternate. Robert Baker was approved as electrical inspector with Henry Traskos his alternate appointment.

Council member Robert Tontalo was appointed liaison officer to the Van Buren Township Recreation Department.

Karrer may head new diesel plant

CHARLES J. KARRER
Massachusetts Institute of Technology under a Sloan Fellowship.

A 22-year company employee, Charles J. Karrer, may be the manager of Diesel Operations when the Detroit Diesel Allison Division of General Motors Corp. opens its new plant in Romulus.

Karrer recently was named to replace E. B. Colby, who has been appointed manager of the division's Indianapolis Operation on the eve of ground breaking for a $100 million diesel parts manufacturing operation in Romulus.

Karrer, an employee of GM since 1941, is a graduate of the General Motors Institute with a degree in industrial engineering, and has earned a graduate degree in industrial management from the

He has served as a process engineer, assistant master mechanic, master mechanic, and manufacturing manager for Detroit Diesel before being named works manager for the division in 1972.

Succeeding Karrer as works manager is Robert O. Hendricks, a graduate of Baldwin Wallace College and the holder of a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

Early this fall, Detroit Diesel announced the proposed construction of a $100 million manufacturing operation in Romulus, which will mean more than 2,000 jobs for Romulus-area residents. Completion of construction on the expansion is slated for 1975.

Former CAP cadet heads Wayne-Romulus squadron

Civil Air Patrol (CAP) group commander, Lt. Col. Alan R. Creighton, has named a senior member and former CAP cadet as the new commander of the group's Wayne-Romulus squadron.

JoAnn Douglass replaces 1st Lt. Frank Kudla Jr., who has commanded the squadron for the past year and a half.

Mrs. Douglass, a former cadet in the unit, achieved the grade of cadet lieutenant colonel and served for more than a year as its cadet commander.

AMONG HER many accomplishments, she has commanded the squadron's girls' drill team to two state championships.

The Wayne-Romulus squadron offers a program of aerospace education, leadership and activities to teenagers between the ages of 13 and 17 in the Wayne-Romulus-Belleville area.

The squadron meets every Wednesday evening from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Romulus Junior High School, 11401 Olive St., Romulus. The unit has openings for cadet members as well as adults.

In addition to the drill competition, CAP activities include field trips to Washington D.C., Cape Kennedy, and the United States Air Force Museum at

JO ANNE DOUGLASS

Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

IN ADDITION, Cadets may train as radio operators, first aid and civil defense personnel, and even as pilots. Orientation flights in private aircraft are an integral part of the program for all Cadet members.

Anyone interested in further information on the CAP program can write to Mrs. Douglass at 18615 Telegraph, Apt. 204, Detroit, 48219, or the headquarters of the Detroit Metropolitan Group at 1603 South Grove, Ypsilanti, 48197.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

Most men shy away from the dubious distinction, "Jack of all trades, master of none." Very few men are qualified to master a trade in numerous fields. It is truly significant that throughout history, only one man has had recognition as Master of all trades. Tradesmen all over the world pay him tribute in their own fields and bestow fitting titles to him for his handiwork. Here are just a few examples:

As an architect, He is the Corner Stone. As a baker, He is the Bread of Life. As a biologist, He is life. As a builder, He is a Sure Foundation. As a doctor, He is the Great Physician. As a farmer, He is the Sower. As a geologist, He is the Rock of Ages. As a philanthropist, He is the Great Giver. As a servant, He is the Master of Perfection. As an educator, He is the Great Teacher. Yes, and even as a Funeral Director, He is the Great Comforter.

In all this world wide recognition, isn't it a shame there are still many people to whom He means nothing?

Moose enroll members

The Belleville Lodge No. 934 of the Loyal Order of the Moose recently enrolled 13 new members.

They are Henry Heuse, Rennie Agnew, Leo Rochon, Luther Stephens, Leo Mandeville, Lee Stamper, Cyril Connochie, Lavern Callard, Peter Regits, John Rounsifer, Robert Walczak, Robert Pethtel and John Cole.

A roast beef dinner was served by the Women of the Moose for the occasion.

The annual Moose Christmas party will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Reservations are necessary.

Moose members and guests are invited to a bingo held from 6 to 10 p.m. on Sundays at the Moose Home.

The Legion of the Moose is holding a venison dinner from 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday. A dance will be held afterwards.

The Moose congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Ron Montroy for the birth of a daughter.

The Moose also express sympathy to the family of Moose member Eugene Hochrein, who recently died. Another Moose member, Richard Dion, is in Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti.

2 appointed to libraries' advisory panel

Two Romulus women have been appointed to two-year terms on the Wayne-Oakland Federated Library Council. Lynn Slaughter and Sandy Linburg have been appointed to the library system's advisory council, made up of two members from each of the communities in Wayne and Oakland counties.

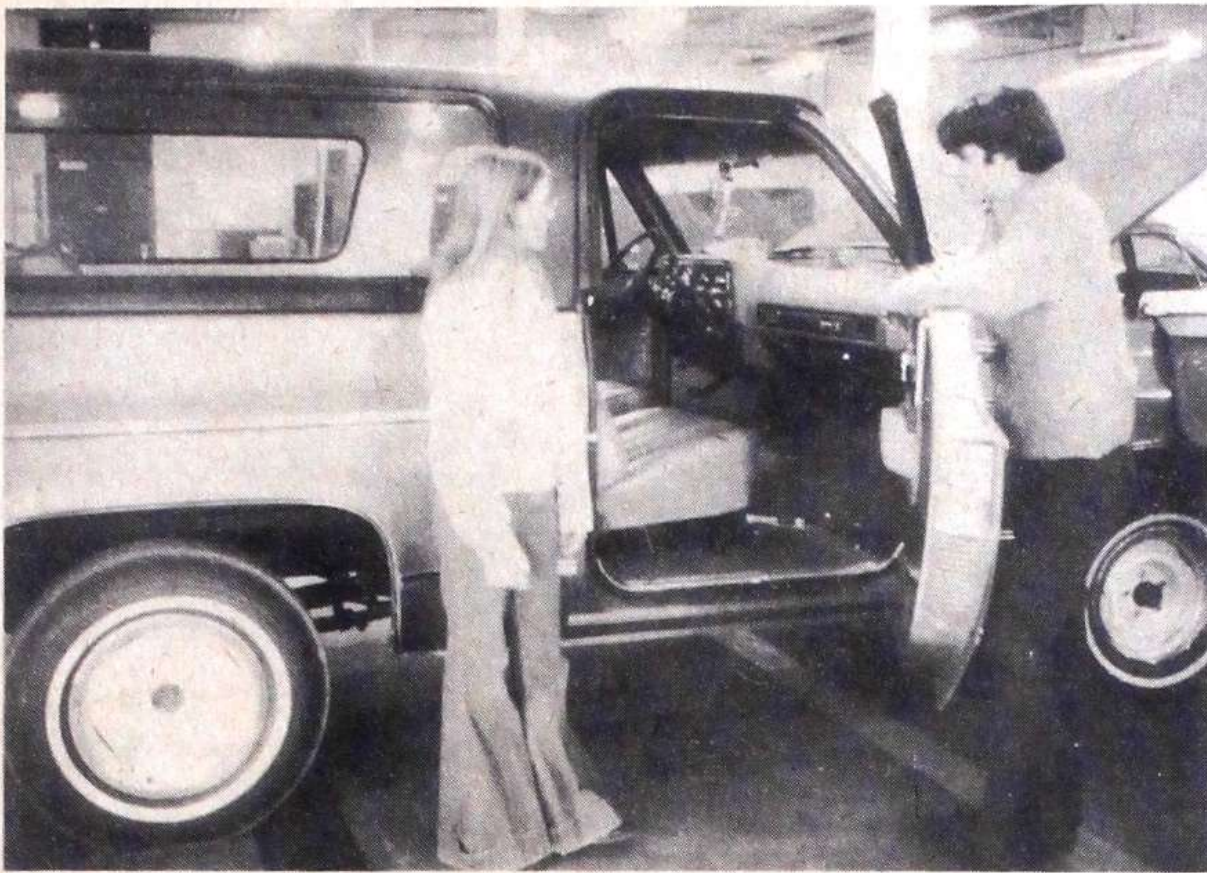

It helps set library policy for outlets throughout the area.

VFW breakfast set for Sunday

The annual Christmas breakfast sponsored by the Romulus VFW Post No. 9568, will be held from 5:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the VFW Hall located on Huron River Drive, Romulus. The cost of the Christmas breakfast is $2 for adults and $1 for children under the age of 12.

The VFW also will be hosting its annual Christmas party at the hall on Dec. 22.

Proceeds from the breakfast event will be used toward financing a Christmas party.

SCHOOL DONATION — The Chevrolet Division of the General Motors Corp. recently donated a 1973 "blazer" vehicle to the Vocational Education Department of the Van Buren Public School System. The vehicle, one of 30 given to various educational facilities in Wayne County, will be used by 90 students, learning automotive mechanics at Belleville High School. From left, eleventh graders Pam Peters and Dave Clay inspect the vehicle, used in a testing program by the auto maker.

Local Romulus merchant joins gift-giving system

A Romulus-area merchant has become part of a nationwide gift-giving system, which makes it possible to have a gift delivered to almost anywhere in the country within hours after it's purchased.

Romulus City Drugs, 9301 Wayne Rd., has joined the system, operated by GiftAmerica, a subsidiary of the Western Union Corp.

GiftAmerica makes deliveries through a network of 5,500 dealers across the nation. Through the use of a computerized system, local dealers relay all orders to GiftAmerica's service center in St. Louis.

In turn, the center contacts

Eagles play Austin tonight

Romulus routs Ecorse

Jesse Meriweather was obviously pleased. Romulus had finally jelled and looked like a basketball team.

"We played the type of ball that I knew we could," said Meriweather after his Eagles blasted a highly-touted Ecorse quintet 89-62 Friday night. "We rattled them with a 2-2-1 zone and when they adjusted we went into a man-to-man zone and kept them off-balance all night."

Romulus' all-stater John Long, playing his best game of the season, was the catalyst for the victory. Long pumped in 16 field goals and four free throws for a game and season high 36 points.

Long's two teammates, James Hall and Rickey Hubbert, also put it together as they chipped in 20 and 15 points, respectively.

ROMULUS leaped on its visitors 20-10 in the first period and for all purposes the game was out of reach at the half when the Eagles stroled into the lockerroom garnering a 41-27 advantage.

"Ecorse is an excellent team," said Meriweather, "I feel they ran up against us at the wrong time."

The Eagles came back and outscored their visitors 26-17 in the third period and gunned them down 22-18 in the final frame. Meriweather had an opportunity to use his entire bench. ROMULUS will take a 2-2 over-all record into tonight's game at Detroit Austin. The Eagle coach said he doesn't know much about his rival, but "Austin has had a tradition of fielding excellent teams."

Earlier in the week Detroit Southeastern overpowered the Eagles 95-66 as turnovers and the lack of board strength led to Romulus' demise.

Close the first half, with Southeastern holding a 22-16 first period edge at up by five at halftime, 46-41, Romulus was forced to find replacements for foul-stricken Hall and Long who sat out much of the third frame.

New rule limits prep mat bouts

By TOM MOORADIAN

Somebody - or somebodies - finally got to the Michigan High School Athletic Association about the excessive number of matches prep grapplers were involved in during the school year.

And the MHSAA acted, thank goodness.

A MHSAA rule, passed in the summer, limits the number of weigh-ins, therefore the number of matches, for a prep grappler to 20, exclusive of the district, regional and state tournaments.

"THIS MEANS," said Dean Shipman, Garden City West's head wrestling coach, "that, even though there are loop holes in rules, there will be a limited amount of wrestling matches that a prep can compete in on the varsity level."

"Of course I have heard arguments pro and against the new rule," continued Shipman, "but, obviously something had to be done to stop a wrestler from burning himself out during the season."

Shipman pointed out that "people - and coaches - were getting concerned about the many matches wrestlers were involved in during the year, so if a wrestler is limited to 20 dates, a coach is going to have to be careful to make sure his boy isn't disqualified by going over the limit."

However, Shipman said that the MHSAA's rule does have a loop hole.

"There's nothing to stop a varsity wrestler from wrestling reserves which doesn't count in those 20 dates," said Shipman.

THERE ARE a couple of camps that offer legitimate arguments for and against the rule. One of the groups argues that "the more a wrestler wrestles, the more polished his moves will be," while the other disagrees to that philosophy.

"There are a lot of wives who have sighed in relief because of the new rule," offered Shipman, "now that there is a limit, coaches won't have the hectic schedules they have had in the past."

"In fact, this weekend some of my wrestlers had the weekend off, and that's a rarity for prep wrestlers, believe me," Shipman said.

There also were some wrestling innovations at the recently staged Western Wayne Invitational held at Westland John Glenn, according to Jak Warren, who has followed Wayne Memorial's wrestling fortunes for the past three years.

"GLENN TRIED a new system which should be interesting to those who stage such meets," said Warren, an acute statistician who is keeping his eye out for All-Area wrestlers this season. "The final bouts and the consolation finals at Glenn were staged on nearby mats and the championships alternates from one mat to the other so that fans got a chance to get a good look at least at half of the first and second places."

"Usually the championships are staged on one mat, and the third and fourth places - the consolation matches - on another. But by alternating the title matches, it sort of gave everyone a chance to see the championship matches," Warren said.

Warren added that the new rule - limiting the weigh-ins to 20 dates - evens out the schedule for schools, cuts the pressure and takes politics out of high school wrestling.

"I always felt something had to be done to limit these meets, and this step - the new rule - I feel is a step in the right direction."

"There should be a limit on the number of matches a high school wrestler can take part in and this new rule forces coaches to keep a record card on each and every wrestler."

Now, if someone would step in and limit the number of hockey games some of the little leagues have scheduled, that would be dandy. Would you believe many of these kids play nearly 35 games a season?

Tom Niemi received his first victory as Belleville High's head basketball coach last Tuesday, but was denied the same privilege in the Suburban 8 Conference Friday night when Edsel Ford hung on to win the season's league opener, 65-40.

And now Niemi and the Tigers are faced with the dubious honor of stopping undefeated Plymouth Salem Friday night in order to break into the league victory column.

Salem is favored to win the conference title. "Salem is an outstanding team," noted Niemi, "they're undefeated and have exceptional size."

NIEMI undoubtedly was referring to Eric Agardy when he mentioned "size." Agardy, a transfer from Allen Park, is the tallest prep cager in the state this season. He's 6-10 and is one big reason why the Rocks are unbeaten this year. Niemi wasn't disappointed at his team's performance at Edsel, he said. He was disappointed however at the team's efforts at the free throw line.

"We made four of 14 fouls and that was the difference in the ball game," the first year Tiger mentor said. "And I feel they (Edsel) hurt us underneath the boards. They managed to get the second shots."

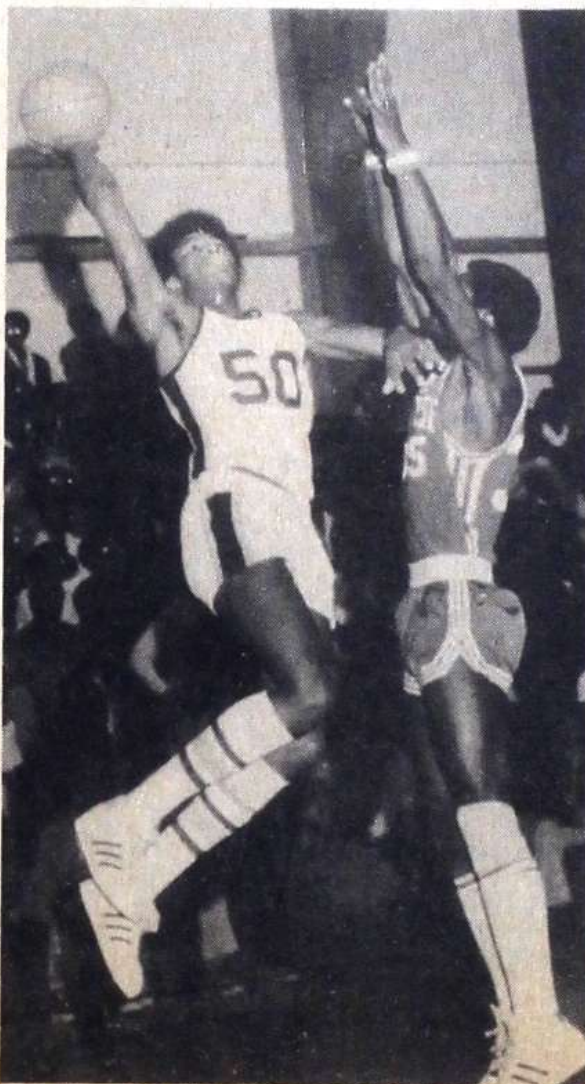

A close ball game all they way, the two league rivals were deadlocked at 12-all at the end of the first period. In the closing minute of the first half Edsel's Greg Mauter sank a layup and a couple of free throws to give the host a four point edge at the half, 32-28. Edsel managed to widen the gap early in the third period by as much as eight points but a Belleville comeback led by Robin Hook, pulled the Tigers to within three.

Edsel hung on after streaking to a 10 point lead in the final period.

"We never were able to get that key basket which would give us the lead," said Niemi, "though the game remained close, we never took the lead away from them."

HOOK, who played an excellent all-around game, wound up in double figures with 10. Also in two figure scoring were Dennis Easley and Narvell Turner who had 12 apiece. Edsel Ford, which canned 17 of 25 from the free throw line, managed to get four players into double figures with Mauter's 19 as the tops for the game.

Romulus matmen bow to Annapolis

Romulus wrestlers are finding it difficult to win a dual meet this season. Coach Jim Stallings' Eagles, who are considered one of the Class A powers in the area, bowed to Dearborn Heights Annapolis last week 34-19.

It was the Eagles' second straight dual meet setback of the year.

Romulus took five of the 12 weight classes, and only one of those on a fall. That six-pointer was accomplished by all-area grinder, heavyweight Henry Reid who pinned Harold Heyler in 31 seconds, the quickest pin of the season.

New Boston Huron High's basketball team began feeling the gas pinch last week, too, and the chiefs hope the situation goes away before this Friday. It wasn't fuel-type gas they were lacking, but whatever it is that normally makes them go, and the result was a 67-52 Huron League loss to title favorite Carleton Airport Friday.

"We just literally ran out of gas," lamented Andy Herman, the Chiefs coach. "We were only three points down at the end of three quarters, but we got tired and ran into foul trouble."

Undefeated Belleville to host swim relays

By DALE GOWING
Enterprise-Roman Sports Writer

Although Belleville High's varsity swimmers "lucked out" to win last year's Belleville Relays, as Coach Sam Vicchy puts it, they are giving every indication that they can repeat that feat Saturday — but with some talent to go along with the luck.

The Tiger tankers have zipped to victories in their first three meets of the season and have the momentum to ably defend their crown in the relays which will be staged Saturday at 1 p.m. in the high school pool.

Also on hand to battle for the title will be Dearborn Fordson, Warren Woods, Dearborn Heights Annapolis and Wyandotte. Fordson and Woods are listed as co-favorites by Vicchy.

"WE LUCKED out to win the meet last year," offers Vicchy, "because we have a small team. You need a lot of bodies for a relay meet and we have only 17 swimmers."

The Tigers showed little evidence of being easy prey in the relays in their latest two dual meets, though, swimming past North Farmington 45-37 last Tuesday and Ypsilanti 96-76 Thursday. They opened Nov. 21 with a convincing 104-63 triumph over Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Against North Farmington, Belleville had to wait for the final two events to lock up the win. The Tigers clung to a slim 38-34 lead before the 100-yard breaststroke but Pike Walker and Tim Wanshon streaked to a 1-2 finish to widen the lead. Belleville's 400-yard freestyle relay team took the final event to spoil the Raiders' hopes.

Vicchy cited Mark Fogarty and Ray Liebler for outstanding performances.

YPSILANTI WAS waiting for the Tigers only two days later, and kept pace with the Belleville visitors until the final two events also.

The Tigers led 79-63 before the 100-yard breaststroke, which was won by Walker again in 1:09.9 to clinch the win.

Vicchy is exceptionally pleased with his club, calling it a "terrific group to work with."

"We aren't real big, we aren't real strong and we aren't real talented, but these kids are a great bunch to work with," he said. "That has made the difference so far."

Belleville wrestling is maturing

If you take stock in what Belleville High wrestling coach Gerald Malecek says—and who doesn't—the Tigers have a rosy future in store for them.

Time was when Belleville's wrestlers were generally looked down upon by most others, but Malecek insists that those days are gone.

"We've really become a tough team in the last year or so," he explains. "In our latest tournament we placed men in nine of the 12 weight classes, which really pleased me. It used to be that we were always on the bottom in tournaments, but now we're fighting for championships instead."

THESE NOTES of optimism rang out after Belleville's modest—but nonetheless impressive—fifth place finish in the prestigious Western Wayne Invitational. And though fifth in an eight-team field is hardly being on top, it certainly isn't the Tigers' customary cellar location either, which is a reassuring thought going into tonight's first dual meet of the season against Dearborn at home, starting at 7 p.m. Belleville lost to the Pioneers last year the only time the two Suburban Eight League rivals met in dual competition, but Malecek sees better things for the locals this time around.

"We should have beaten Dearborn last year but had some bad breaks," he said. "We'll be out to get them this time, don't worry, and if we can get everybody down to weight and have no injuries we should win."

Malecek credits the brunt of Belleville's return to wrestling respectability to "some pretty tough sophomores."

"LAST YEAR WE were just filling some of the weight classes with anybody, but this year we really have some tough wrestlers fighting for those spots. I'd say we have more good boys to work with this year than in a long time."

Although the Tigers registered a fifth ranking in the Western Wayne meet, sponsored by The Associated Newspapers, they just as easily could have wound up fourth—or third. Belleville had 63 points while fourth-place Farmington had 64½ and third-place Romulus totaled 70½. Wayne Memorial defended its championship with a whopping 122 points while Westland John Glenn was runner-up at 73½.

Dearborn Heights Crestwood distantly followed Belleville with 17 points, while Livonia Bentley and Taylor Center brought up the rear with 11 and zero points, respectively.

Originally, Belleville was credited with 59½ points, but a computation error was detected and the Tigers were awarded 3½ more points to narrowly trail Farmington.

Wayne wins WW

Wayne Memorial continued its domination of the Western Wayne Wrestling Invitational Tournament as Coach Don Haney's Zebras retained the title for the fourth consecutive year.

In a field of eight area teams, Wayne amassed 122 points to out-distance its nearest rival, Westland John Glenn by 48½ points. Romulus was third (70½), Farmington (64½), Belleville (62½), Crestwood (17), Livonia Bentley (11) and Taylor Center (0) followed.

only a point and a half after the first bracket matches, then increased its lead impressively, grinding out an awesome 122 points to win it all.

Haney's Zebras' score topped last year's 107½.

THE TOURNAMENT had only one repeat individual champ in Glenn's Ken Arble, who won his gold medal over last year's runner-up Paul Goosby of Wayne with a 4-0 decision.

Also, conspicuously present were first, second and third place winners of last year's class A state champions. Wayne's John Bullard, state runner-up, took a first in 145, but the outstanding bout of the night was generally acclaimed to be the matchup of Romulus' state champion Brad Smith and Wayne's Larry Silvestri, state third place medalist, in the 138 pound class.

Trailing 3-2 in the waning seconds, Silvestri scored a takedown on Smith and doggedly maintained control until the buzzer to squeak out a 4-3 decision.

ROMULUS has three gold medalists: Lamar Sandusky (105), Phil Ford (119) and heavyweight Henry Reid.

Sandusky turned back Farmington's Dan Longtime in the finals 6-3 and defeated John Glenn's Vasha in the semi-finals 6-1. He began his bid for the gold with a 43 seconds pin over Drath.

Ford decisioned Wayne's Mike Michalik for the top birth in the 119-pounds class, winning 7-4. He got by Belleville's Porter 13-2 and beat John Glenn's Davis 11-1 in the preliminaries. Reid won all three matches by falls, pinning Glenn's Maloney in 4:51, Crestwood's McKinney in 3:03 and Belleville's Brezela in 3:50.

ROMULUS also had a second place with Bradley Smith, who lost the 138-pound class to Wayne's Larry Silvestri.

Third place medals went to Rudy Williams (145) of Romulus who beat Glenn's Quinn, 7-1, in the consolation bracket and Victor Butler who disposed of Bracken of Belleville 4-2.

Ivory Allen, who lost to Ciccotte of Glenn 6-1, finished fourth.

"We improved over a year ago," said Romulus Coach Jim Stallings, "last year we were fourth. Our type is the type that the bigger and tougher the tournament the better we will do."

Chiefs' 5th best at Airport meet

Entering last night's wrestling meet against Ypsilanti Lincoln, New Boston Huron High had at least one hting on its side: the results of last Saturday's Airport Tournament.

Huron placed fifth as a team in the eight-team tournament won by Ida High, and Lincoln finished a close sixth. But whether that means Huron is any better than Lincoln was due to be decided last night.

In racking up its fifth place berth—behind champion Ida, Southgate Aquinas, Novi and Milan, and ahead of Lincoln, host Carleton Airport and Monroe Jefferson—Huron had one winner, one second, a third and two fourths.

Heavyweight Bill Grover whipped his opponents to reign as the Chiefs' lone champion, Al Budek was second at 167, Don Thornsbury third at 155 and Keith Reitz (119) and Jim Bilbrey (172) wrestled to fourth places.

But prior to the tournament Huron had extended its dual meet unbeaten string to three, with victories over Wyandotte Roosevelt and Riverview last week.

The Chiefs had little trouble against Roosevelt, winning easily, 51-15. Huron captured firsts in nine of the 12 weight classes. The Chiefs struck again two days later, Thursday, to pin Riverview, 35-21, gaining six individual triumphs.

Tentative plan for Van Buren Land map awaits report

The Van Buren Township Planning Commission unanimously approved a tentative land use map for Van Buren Township and referred it to the Wayne County Planning Commission for its study.

A motion to tentatively approve the proposed land use map was made by Stephen J. Kuchta, the township board's representative on the commission. He was supported by Mrs. Jean Morris.

A date for a public hearing on the map will be scheduled after receipt of the county planning commission's recommendation.

The planning commission at its recent meeting also heard a discussion on "transitory dwelling development" by Robert Myers of Ypsilanti and Bernard Sobie of Detroit.

They told the planning commission that their proposed development is a new concept of mobile home living, where the people buy the trailers and the lot, removing the wheels to put the trailers on stationary foundations.

Scout enjoys day at the farm

The activities included horseback riding, playing in a real hayloft, a hayride, and a hike, which ended with a picnic.

At the Nov. 27 pack meeting, bobcat awards were presented to Sean Thomas, Gregg Carter, William Hering, Troy Rau, Douglas Frazier, Gerald Sweda, Samuel Wallace, Jody Hall and Douglas Williams.

Advanced to the rank of Webelos were John Percy, William Thomas, Charles Gibbs and Kenneth Carter.

One year service stars went to James Hamm, Keith Watts, Edward Bocuign, Matt Percy, James Holbrook, Ray Jarvis, Jack Petricko, Brian Golightly, Mike Coatsworth and Eric Lindberg.

Two year service stars went to John Percy, Kenneth Carter, Thomas Williams and Charles Gibbs.

New to Pack 739 is a cub scout leader, Mrs. Thomas Williams.

AIRPORT DISCUSSION — Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer (right) met in Lansing recently with State Sen. William Faust (center) and State Rep. Gary M. Owen for a discussion on the proposed expansion of Willow Run Airport. Gollwitzer has successfully sought and acquired a state highway commission comprehensive study on the proposed expansion. Two other area officials along with Gollwitzer vigorously oppose a plan to make the airport the largest cargo facility in the world.

Mail bag bargain

The Belleville Post Office has placed padded mailing bags on sale as an added convenience to customers.

Postmaster R.J. O'Neil said.

The mailing bags are being sold by window clerks and come in three convenient sizes. Bag costs are proportional at 20, 30 and 40 cents.

These padded bags are an ideal container for mailing gifts, books, candy, clothing and other similar size items.

"The postal service has experimented successfully in the sale of these mailing bags during the past year at central region will now have this.

"The postal service has experimented successfully in the sale of these mailing bags during the past year at selected post offices," O'Neil said. As a result of increasing demands for this container, all first class offices in the central region will now have this convenience item available to customers.

The primary objective of the bag is to provide postal customers with a convenient method of mailing and to assist the U.S. Postal Service in its continuing efforts to reduce parcel damage and insure delivery of parcels in good condition, O'Neil added.

Belleville church to conduct series

The Berean Baptist, 6889 Belleville Rd., Belleville will have two special programs for Christmas.

On Sunday evening at 7 p.m., the 27-member choir will present the John Peterson Cantata, "Love Transcending."

Soloists will be Robert Grandmason, James Sheldon, Yvonne Priest, Bessie Grandmason, Joanne Kotarczyk and Donna Smith along with a trio composed of Lois Parker, Judy Sheldon and Kay Snyder.

The director is the Pastor A Franklin Miller. The musical accompaniment will be by pianist Debbie Grandmason, and Clarence Brown will act as the narrator.

On Friday at 7:15 p.m., the choir will present cantata at the Van Buren Convalescent Center in Van Buren Township.

On Sunday evening Dec. 23 at 7 p.m., Berean Baptist Church will present its Sunday School program with the students taking part.

Township building increases sharply

Van Buren Township building activities during November took a sharp jump over October figures, according to a report issued by the township building department.

In November, 22 building permits with an estimated construction cost of $630,332 were issued by the department as compared to 32 permits in October, representing a figure of $197,611 Van Buren Chief Building Inspector Darryl Robson said.

The total fees collected in November amounted to $2,403 and $2,484 in October.

November residential building permits included two townhouse units with construction cost set at $223,864; additions, alterations and conversions involving residential dwellings, totaling $247,968; and five one-family dwellings valued at $137,128.

The electrical division issued 27 permits and collected $330 in fees. The heating division issued nine permits and collected $105 in fees, and the plumbing division 13 permits with $1,530 in fees.

Officials to weigh opinions

Romulus' legislators will consider citizen opinions on the proposed zoning of land west of Huron River Drive and south of Walnut Drive from a single family residential to a light industrial designation at a public meeting next week.

The property, approximately 4 acres in size, will be the topic of the hearing, scheduled for 7 p.m., Dec. 17, in the Romulus City Council Chambers.

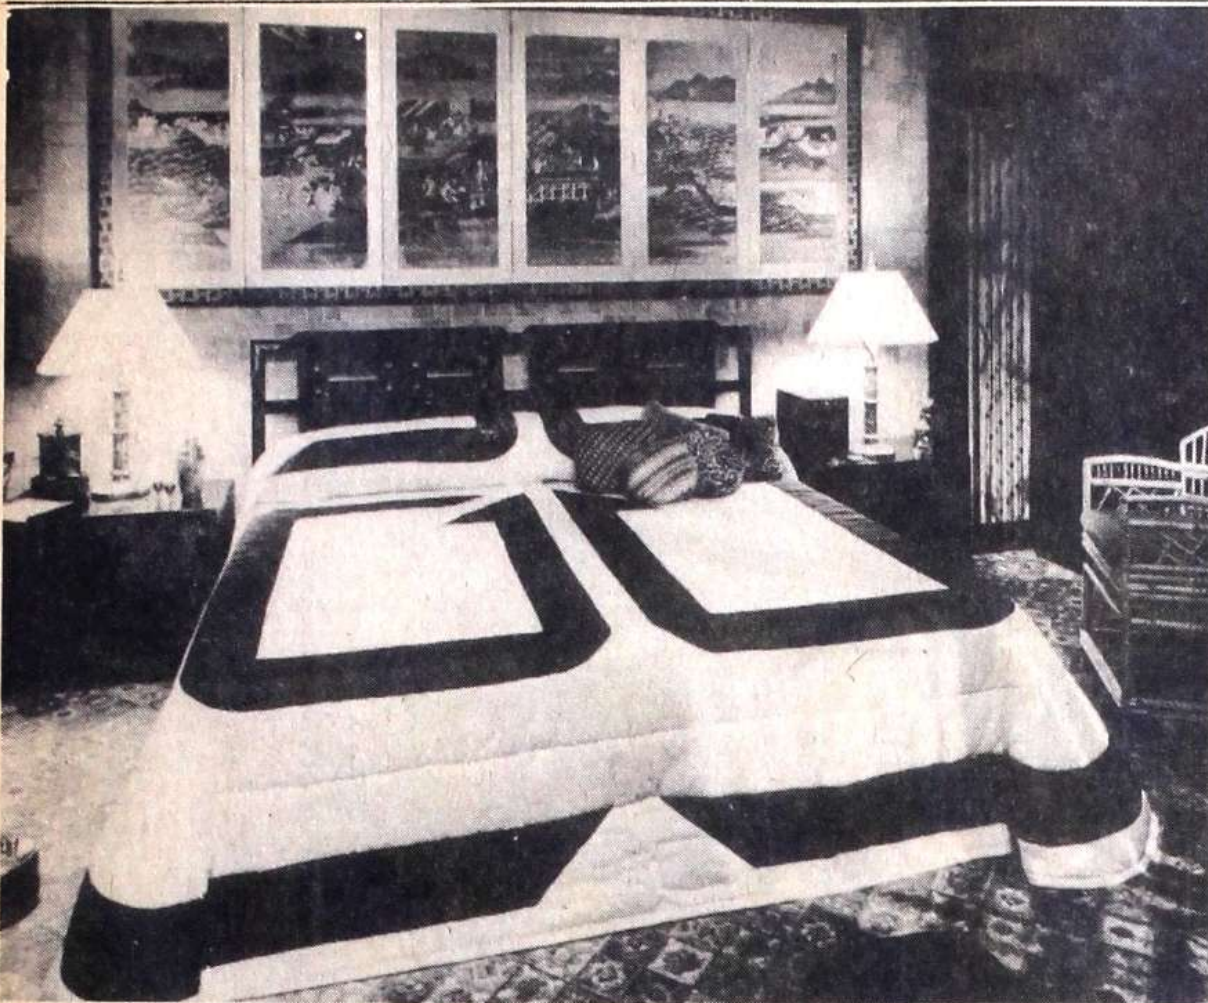

Registering price

The price of registering a cattle brand in Mattoon, Ill., still remains at 15 cents after 101 years.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE

The City of Romulus is accepting applications for Board of Canvassers. Applications may be filled out at the Romulus City Clerk's office, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan, until Thursday, December 19, 1973.

ORIENTAL BEDROOM—Serenity is the mood created in this Oriental bedroom setting. Featuring cork wallcovering, and Persian carpeting, the room is a fine example of the revitalization of Oriental design and influence in the current American home furnishings scene.

To 'get it together'

Closet wall organizes bedroom

Orderliness is a virtue admired by almost everyone, but for a number of reasons not practiced by many persons. Some never form a habit of being organized while others are too busy scurrying from one activity to another to "get it all together."

The closet may have been invented by one of these disorganized persons, as a convenient place to stash away a great many things quickly, out of sight behind a door.

A full-length wall of closets solved the master bedroom storage problems for one family in a loft room with a pitched ceiling. Louvered wood doors used across the length of the wall, above and on both sides of the bed, add a handsome custom look to the room.

THE WALL ABOVE the closets is paneled with one-by-six-inch V-groove western pine boards. Installed horizontally. Vertical board paneling on each side of the bed and a recessed shelf above the pillow form a headboard.

Above the recessed shelf, a cabinet for bedroom and bathroom linens has louvered wood doors matching the closets. The doors all have a soft gloss finish matching the pine paneling, adding to the room's unified look.

The bathroom is a freestanding room opposite the bed and adjacent to the stairway to the living room from the loft. The bathroom island, paneled with the same boards as the wall and ceiling, also serves as a privacy screen for the bedroom.

A similar closet wall can be added just as easily in a bedroom with regular ceiling and walls, framing it with two-by-four-inch western wood and adding louvered wood doors, to be found in various stock sizes at lumber dealers.

A shelf or small horizontal cabinet is attached to the wall as a headboard for the bed which is inset between flanking closets. Wall-hung cabinets may be added above the bed, out of head-bumping range, for added storage.

CLOSET WALL ORGANIZES BEDROOM — Full-length wall of closets provides ample storage for master bedroom, helps keep loft room with pitched roof orderly.

Americans discovering rich motifs from Orient

Since there is a fundamental affinity between all successful designs, the motifs of any geographic area should be judged by universal standards, not merely from national points of view.

The Orient has given the world a rich legacy in design, and every few years, Americans seem to "discover" it again.

Nowhere is it more evident that in the United States today.

RENEWED INTEREST in chinoiserie is credited to President Nixon's goodwill trip to Asia - but designers know that it started long before, and what surprises most is its sustained interest. Oriental continues to grow and gain momentum with each passing month.

In times past, many of the magnificent old pieces of furniture were made at great cost for the exclusive use of the rich and mighty. In other instances, they were created for some special religious or regal ceremony.

Oriental home furnishings are a vital part of American heritage. Brought back on Colonial whaling and clipper ships... silk screens, Persian rugs, and cloisonne became prized possessions of Early American homes. Intricate details, superb craftsmanship, and an exquisite sense of color were admired and copied long before the latest revival.

A Far Eastern mood for here and now is created by a designer in this exotic bedroom. Styling from the past, with storage for today, is provided in the "Passport" chests. Versatile, functional, switchable, stackable... Passports chest have the gleaming brass trim that once secured seacaptains' chests. The bits o' brass are repeated in accessories through out the room.

WALLS, WALLS, and yet again more walls form the framework of every Chinese city. They surround it, they divide it into compounds, they mark more than any other structures the basic features of Chinese design. You can see the influence in the beamed ceiling treatment over the Chandelier ceiling.

Orientalists always preferred the principle of balance, and the repeated symmetry of stylized medallions in Persian carpet collection brings solid harmony to the room. The rich sculpton-embossing of the carpet, natural bamboo chairs and appointments enhance the time-honored finishing techniques of the furniture.

In Oriental philosophy, man does not play the center and heroic part that he plays in the art of Europe... and landscape is the most important of subjects because it not only includes man... but all living things. Animals, birds, plants are portrayed beautifully in painting. On the screen above the bed, it is obvious that painting for the Oriental is a branch of handwriting, for both require a brush and a fine

Belleville Kiwanis bags end tree mess

The Belleville Kiwanis Club has come up with an idea to save frayed nerves, frustration and aggravation at Christmas time.

How many times have you wrestled with your Christmas tree, after the holidays are over, only to find your carpet littered with drying or dried needles?

The Kiwanis Club as part of its annual Christmas tree sale has solved the problem with a huge plastic bag in which the tree can be placed for easy delivery home.

Once home, it's a simple task to remove the bag, which can double as a tree skirt. The best part of all, local Kiwanians say, is that after the tree has been disposed of, the bag can be folded

Fact finder named for talks

The selection of a state-approved fact finder to assist in the current 1973-74 contract dispute, involving teachers affiliated with the Van Buren Public School District, has been announced by the state labor mediator, Gordon Lee. He is Maurice Kelman, of the Wayne State University Law School.

Kelman was first choice of the negotiating team for the Van Buren Board of Education and the second choice of the Van Buren Education Association (VBEA). Three nominees were presented by the state for selection by the teams. Van Buren School Supt. Dale E. Kaulitz said Kelman will not be available until late January or early February to participate in contract negotiations.

Kelman will be charged with investigating the district's finances in an effort to settle the 2½ month dispute, which resulted in a 12-day walk-out in mid-September. Although the fact finder can not issue a binding settlement, he will be charged with offering suggestions which could lead to an agreement or a new course in the bargaining. Fact finding was ordered by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge James Canham who assumed jurisdiction in the dispute after ordering the teachers back to work, putting an end to the walkout on Sept. 24.

Major issues to be resolved are salary schedules, class size and fringe benefits.

DNR holds safety class

A snowmobile safety course of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will be held at the South Junior High School, 45201 Owen St., Belleville, under the sponsorship of the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

The course will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on Friday, Monday and next Wednesday. The course is limited to 60 people, and a fee of $125 will be charged to cover the cost of materials.

According to the DNR sources, all youths between the ages of 12 and 16 must take this course and receive a license to be able to operate a snowmobile in the state.

AIP hosts info meeting

The American Independent Party (AIP) of the 15th Congressional District is holding an organizational meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Dearborn Youth Center, Michigan Avenue and Greenfield Road, Dearborn.

For purposes of public education and interest, the AIP is showing a film entitled "Man, Freedom and Government," which is narrated by Ezra Taft Benson. The film explores and studies proper relationships of man to government and the maintenance of individual freedom under government.

IT'S A BUYER'S MARKET

NOTICE TO BUYER!
There will probably not be a better time than right now to bargain for a home of your own. Interest rates have leveled off and it does not appear that they will drop in the foreseeable future. We have many homes listed that the sellers have said to "get them a reasonable offer" so they can continue with their plans. So if you're planning to purchase in the near future, do it now. It makes sense to Call George Smith Realty and get all the facts.

YOU GET YOUR MONEYS WORTH
And more in this sharp 3 bedroom, 1 1/2 story aluminum sided home on Washington in Wayne. There is a full basement, gas heat and hot water. Extra large 2 1/2 car garage (only 2 yrs. old) All you can ask in a home and the price is just $22,600. Call 721-4241 and beat the price rise.

DEAR SANTA
All I want for Christmas is that lovely brick colonial on Christine. It is so big and beautiful. There are three large bedrooms, a dreamy kitchen (with every convenience) huge living room, a formal dining room, spacious family room with a real natural fireplace! Our family would so enjoy the comfort of this clean, quiet electric heating. No cold drafty dusty floors! Even the lot is king size - our children could have their own ice rink. Santa the people at Geo. Smith Realty can take care of all the details for you. Please call 721-4241 right away, the price for this dream is only $49,500 - Love, Jane. P.S. There's an attached 2 car garage with electric door - just for you, and central vacuum just for me.
